Police Video Tape Of Judge's Arrest Focus of Tug of War

A tug of war has developed between a Township Committeeman and the Borough Police Department over a police video tape of the processing of Municipal Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. following his arrest on charges of drunken driving.

Fred W. Porter Jr., former Township Police Chief, says he wants to see for himself whether two Borough policemen were injured during the arrest and/or processing, as he had heard they were, one seriously enough to be placed on light duty.

Mr. Annich was charged with drunken driving by the Borough police on May 12 following a car accident at Franklin Avenue and North Harrison Street. He pleaded guilty two days later, asked for and was granted temporary leave from his duties and is currently undergoing treatment for depression and alcoholism.

The State Advisory Committee on Judicial Conduct, which is empowered to decide whether or not to recommend to the Supreme Court that Mr. Annich be barred permanently from serving as municipal judge, is reviewing the case.

The governing bodies may provide input to this committee if they wish, and it was in this context that Mr. Porter and Committeewoman Ellen Souter asked to view the tapes of the arrest when they, along with other members of Township Committee, were briefed on the situation by Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer in closed session at their last meeting May 18.

Mrs. Souter now says she prefers not to comment, but she makes it clear she is no longer interested in seeing the tape. She says that at the time there were rumors from many sources that two Borough police officers were hurt and the police were not allowed to

Fine and Service Levied Against 21 Nude Runners

Saying they had gone over the edge, Judge Samuel Sachs in Borough court Monday fined 21 Princeton University sophomores who participated in the February 14 Nude Olympics $200 each. Judge Sachs then ruled that half of the fine will be suspended upon the completion of 18 hours of community service.

On Friday, Judge Ray Barson had fined nine University students, who had left campus early for summer jobs, $150 each but did not attach any community service. Of the 31 students issued summonses by Borough police,

Beer Will Flow Less Freely Than in Past Princeton University Alumni Reunions

Beer won't flow as freely at this year's Princeton University Alumni Reunions, which begin Thursday and continue through the weekend.

In an attempt to curb the potential for alcohol abuse and to abide by New Jersey underage drinking laws, there will be more restrictions on who gets free beer in the Reunions tents and an emphasis on non-alcoholic alternatives throughout the campus.

In keeping with University policy, the prohibition against carrying open containers of alcohol in public spaces by anyone regardless of age, including carrying and consumning alcohol in the P-Rade, will be strictly enforced.

University policy also prohibits serving more than two containers of beer to one individual at one time and serving alcohol to anyone not wearing an authorized Reunion badge with a 1992 stamp signifying he or she is 21 years or older.

At every reunion site, class officials supported by proctors, will close the bars during the P-Rade and tap no new kegs after 1:30 a.m. each night. Fences surrounding bar areas will facilitate the checking of IDs, ease the flow of patrons and discourage loitering. In areas separate from the beer bars, a greater volume and variety of non-alcoholic drinks will be available.

This year for the first time, several major classes will require special identification of those wishing to be served alcohol. Alumni returning for their the fifth and 10th reunions will receive wristbands that must be shown at the bar to receive an alcoholic beverage.

The 15th and 25th reunions will serve alcohol only in exchange for tickets issued at registration. Guests must show proper identification, including proof of age, to obtain their wristbands or tickets.

Alcohol service will be limited to two drinks at a time and bar areas have been redesigned to encourage people to move through after getting their drinks rather than congregate around the taps.

Reunions

New this year will be a Quiet Cafe located in Cuyler courtyard, where there will be a tent, chairs, tables, soft lights, coffee, tea and soft drinks. The Department of Food Services will operate a refreshment trailer north of Witherspoon Hall on Friday and Saturday from 11 to 3. During the P-Rade itself there will be five soft drink wagons operating at various places along the route.

The shorter P-Rade route confined to the campus that was first tried last year will continue this year. Classes assembled in front and to the rear of Nassau Hall will fall in behind the Class of 1967, back for its 25th reunion, as it comes through the FitzRandolph Gates behind the Princeton University Band.

The P-Rade will go through the Chancellor Green/East Pyne courtyard as if heading toward Firestone Library and the Chapel but will double back to pass in front of Murray-Dodge, Whig and Clio Halls before heading south down Elm Drive to Poe Field.

Spectator viewing will be along Chapel Drive and along Elm Drive in front of Dillon Gymnasium and the tennis courts. The annual meeting of the Alumni Association after the P-Rade will be shortened and transformed into a ceremony of welcome for the graduating class.

Each arriving reunion class will pass through a "triumphal entranceway" and parallel reviewing stands gradually filling with older odd- and even-numbered classes. The 25th Reunion Class will be in the honor stand at the head of this formation.

Family Oriented

Elsewhere in Poe Field there will be clowns, pony rides, a steam calliope, a hot air balloon and refreshments. The Alumni Council is emphasizing the family aspect of Reunions. For instance, this year on Saturday, at an authentic Crow Indian tepee behind Clio Hall, environmentalist Debbie Richau will tell American Indian stories and offer youngsters opportunities to write their own stories and draw pictographs.

"Something old, something new" is the theme of this year's Reunions. The thousands of returning alumni from the classes of 1912 on up will find the usual complement of forums with alumni and faculty who are experts on the topic under discussion. These forums begin on Thursday afternoon at 3 and continue all day Friday.

The topics range from "Whatever Happened to Sports?" to "The Recession: What's the Autopsy, What's the Prognosis?" "Is It Time for a National School Policy?" and "Oil and Troubled Waters: What is Our Most Precious Resource?" There are also topics on the upcoming Presidential elections, how the cities are faring at the end of the millenium and the international competitiveness of U.S. business.

All are open to the public. For further information and a complete listing call the Alumni Council, 258-1900, or stop by the Council's office in Maclean House on the front campus for the 1992 Reunions brochure.

Reunions is closely followed by activities leading up to graduation for members of the Class of 1992 and those in the Graduate College who are receiving advanced degrees. The Baccalaureate Service will be held Sunday at 2 in the University Chapel. Cokie Roberts, National Public Radio correspondent, will give this year's baccalaureate address.

The service will be followed by a garden party for degree recipients and families, trustees, faculty and alumni hosted by Princeton President Harold T. Shapiro and Mrs. Shapiro in the garden at Prospect.

Traditional Class Day ceremonies which include various awards for the graduating class are held Monday at 10:30 in Cannon Green behind Nassau Hall. That night is the Senior Prom, held in Jadwin Gym from 9 to 1, followed by a senior party from 1 to 3 in Dillon Gym.

Commencement itself, the 245th since the College of New Jersey granted its first degrees, will take place Tuesday at 11 on the front lawn of Nassau Hall. The academic process will begin at 10:35, and trucks will be detoured around Nassau Street during the one-hour ceremony. If it rains, which it rarely does for a Princeton University Commencement, the ceremony will be held in Jadwin Gym.

Host Families Needed For Yugoslav Students

On July 2, teenage students from Yugoslavia will step off a plane at JFK Airport accompanied by their high school teacher. All speak English well and will stay in the Lawrenceville/Princeton community on an academic and cultural exchange for four weeks. Ten students and one adult teacher still need placement with volunteer host families.

Students are kept busy daily with an agenda that includes study, recreation, and sightseeing. Evenings and weekends are free to spend time with their American families in typical routines and everyday life.

It is not necessary to have same-aged children in the home, and students are medically insured. Call Eileen Marin at 883-5580 for more information.

Revised School Board Resolution Eliminates Criticism of Administration on Johnson Park

Clauses critical of the Administration were missing from a resolution unanimously approved by the School Board last Tuesday night. The original version of the resolution, which was introduced by Board Member Richard Godfrey on May 7, stated that the Superintendent and Board Secretary were informed on April 15 that Johnson Park would not be ready to open in September, but did not inform the Board until the week of April 27.

TOPICS
Of the Town

The revised resolution omits this section, and focuses on the need for Board members to be notified immediately of any event which is likely to have a significant impact on the District's students.

Also released last Tuesday night was a joint statement by Mr. Godfrey and Superintendent of Schools Carol Choye, in which the Administration states it kept the Board informed in a timely manner on the ongoing status of Johnson Park construction.

"We have agreed that there is likely to be continuing disagreement as to the timeliness and completeness of reports to the Board on the Johnson Park construction," the statement read.

It also noted that certain members of the Board would like to see a full investigation and discussion of the events regarding the reporting of information on the Johnson Park delays, as would Dr. Choye and Assistant Suprintendent Robert Rader. "However," the statement read, "such an undertaking is likely to be extremely time-consuming, divisive, and may not yield conclusions which are satisfactory to all parties."

The Board had come out of closed session to announce the revised resolution and present the joint statement. Todd Tieger, in the audience, said the discussion should have been held in public, and that it didn't fit into the provisions of the "sunshine law."

This State law essentially limits those topics that may be discussed behind closed doors to litigation, negotiations, and personnel.

Another member of the audience, Joyce Turner, voiced her agreement with Mr. Tieger, and asked the Board to be careful on this point.

"We have tried to be as careful about closed session as we could be," said Board President Gerald Groves. He added that legal counsel had been sought, and that Board Attorney Gerald O'Shaughnessy had advised the Board to hold this discussion in closed session.

Mr. Godfrey, who is an attorney with experience in State government, said the opinion from counsel had gone beyond saying closed session was permissible to an indication that the Board had to invoke it. "Some of us might not agree

Hospital Rote-Setting "Unenforceobie"

A federal judge last week ruled that New Jersey's system for setting hospital rates is "unenforceable" and illegally requires millions of workers to pay too much for health care.

U.S. District Judge Alfred M. Rolin, ruling in a suit brought by 14 labor union benefit plans, ordered that health plans representing about 40 percent of the State's workers be exempted from paying charges that help fund the State's health care system.

An aide to Gov. Florio, Brenda Bacon, said the ruling collapses health care funding in the State and would revive discussion of a payroll tax to cover the uninsured.

Under the ruling, some 2.4 million workers are exempted from paying a 19 percent surcharge on all hospital bills to pay for charity care and bad hospital debts.

Ban of Assault Guns Moy End

Legislation repealing the State's ban on semiautomatic assault-style weapons was easily approved by the Republican-controlled State Assembly. The 55-18 vote, cast mostly along party lines, was applauded by about 75 in the Assembly gallery.

The measure passed with one more vote than necessary for a possible override attempt that would follow a likely veto by Gov. Florio.

The Governor, who had characterized the ban as a hallmark of his administration, said he would "send back a conditional veto" if the Senate passed the measure. According to pro-gun lobbyists, however, there are enough votes for an override in the Senate as well.

The measure would legalize some 27 weapons individually listed in the 1990 law, from semiautomatic Uzis to AK-47s, in addition to weapons considered substantially similar. The bill also would remove a ban on the sale or possession of ammunition clips holding more than 15 rounds.

Rote Increose Request

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey will ask for a large rate increase for thousands of its individual policy holders. The request follows last week's court decision rejecting the State's hospital rate-setting system.

Company officials said the 20 to 25 percent rate increase requested would affect about half of the 500,000 individual subscribers covered.

Governor Promises Veto

Gov. Jim Florio said last week that he will veto a bill that would automatically extend expired land-development approvals unless the Legislature adds language to protect wetlands.

The Governor said he would issue a conditional veto message proposing changes in the law that would assure that projects with expired permits are subject to the State's rigorous freshwater wetlands standards.

The bill had been described as a means to lift the State's sagging home-construction industry. Gov. Florio said his approach struck a balance between the competing positions of builders and environmentalists.

with what he said," Mr. Godfrey said. "Personally, I disagree with his interpretation."

A woman in the audience asked that Mr. O'Shaughnessy's opinion be made public. "I have not seen this done," responded Dr. Groves. "I don't want to get into it tonight."

Desegregation Grant

In other business, Supervising Principal John Sakala said he had been informed by the State that the Princeton District could apply for a second desegregation grant, for school year 1992-93. It is not certain, however, that the Legislature will approve the $14 million budget item to fund the grants. Last year's desegregation grant to the Princeton District was $439,000.

How these monies are being spent — and how much minority children are benefitting from them — remains a lively Board topic. It is expected to be further discussed at a School Board meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, June 2.

Board Member Deborah Curtis, looking at a preliminary report on the desegregation grant prepared by the Administration, said she did feel she had sufficient information to see how the money was spent.

"I agree with Debbie," said Board Member Ann Baynes Coiro. "I don't want to see line items. They don't mean anything to me."

Mr. Sakala, who is administering the grant, said that in order to provide the detail the Board wanted, he would have to go back to each individual purchase order. This, he said, would take at least a week.

Board Member Corinne Kyle responded that it was a perfectly reasonable request to ask for the total spent for all 18 objectives outlined in the grant. "I assume this can be done without going back to every invoice," she said.

Board Member John Clearwater voiced approval of the preliminary report's format. "If the school administration fills in all the numbers, we'll have a pretty good sense where the money is and what it has been spent on."

Several in the audience were critical of the District's performance. Samirah Williams asked what actually had been accomplished by the grant. "How many kids of color will actually benefit from this? If programs have been offered for a year, we should see results," she added.

"I have enormous problems with what is going on," said Peter Paris, a 1987 graduate of Princeton High School, who said there was a lack of a hard-core commitment by the School Board to black and Hispanic students. "The same kids are falling through the same cracks," he said. "I was in high school five to seven years ago. I saw it then. I see it now."

Mr. Paris's comments appeared to irk Mrs. Kyle, who said, "If the expectation is that a grant will make things better, I will vote against the grant."

Although the desegregation grant offered an infusion of money to deal with the problem of minority performance, the District has been aware of the issue since at least 1979, when it was brought to public attention in the Lotz Report.

A number of other reports since then have shown, among other things, that minorities were significantly over-represented in special education classes.

Did Pilot Get Warning Before Fatal Crash?

Did Princeton University student Morgan McKinzie receive a warning of a tail wind before his single engine plane crashed into a 50-foot tree last month at the Princeton airport?

According to a preliminary report released last week by the National Transportation Safety Board, an unidentified flight instructor was also attempting to land the same rainy night on the airport's Runway 28. She failed twice because of high winds at her back but succeeded on her third try when she opted to land in the opposite direction on another runway. She landed successfully between 9:45 and 10 p.m., the report said.

According to the NTSB report, the pilot, between her second attempt to land and while doing a go-around for her third attempt, spotted another plane flying into the same airport in the same direction as her original approach, heading for Runway 28.

The incoming pilot made an unsuccessful approach, the report said, and then lifted back into the sky. As it circled for what was presumed to be another try, the flight instructor recommended over her radio that the incoming pilot use the other runway to avoid the tail winds that she had experienced.

The pilot of the circling plane replied, "Yeah, I...." and then the transmission abruptly ended. The unidentified flight instructor "assumed the pilot continued the flight and landed." She told investigators that she wasn't sure if the pilot she had contacted was McKinzie or not. She did not learn of the accident until the next day.

McKinzie's rented, 10-year-old Cessna Skyhawk crashed head-on into the 50-foot tree, some 1,200 feet beyond Runway 28. McKinzie and his passenger, Michelle Goudie, both 21-year-old Princeton University juniors, were killed instantly by the impact.

The report does not reveal how or when the McKinzie plane crashed. NTSB officials said they would not comment beyond the report, adding that a second report containing a "probable cause" will be released in four to six months. A finding in the initial report found no evidence of mechanical failure.

Witnesses observed the McKinzie plane taxi down the Princeton Airport runway between 8:30 and 8:45. A timer on board indicated that the plane's engine had run for 72 minutes; the time that the flight instructor said she contacted the plane — between 9:45 and 10 — fits a logical sequence.

The wreckage was not discovered, however, until 2:20 the following morning. The bodies remained trapped inside the cockpit until they were removed with the aid of a crane around noon the next day.

IN THE LIMELIGHT: Democratic candidates for Township Committee Sharon Bilanin, left, and Phyllis Marchand, right, met with Hillary Clinton on her recent visit to the Princeton area. Ms. Clinton spoke to supporters about the need to address issues concerning children and access to health care.

Teacher Takes Stand In Tenure Hearings

John Witherspoon Middle School teacher Ward Campbell has denied charges that he verbally and physically assaulted students, and charged that those students who testified he had may have lied because he is a tough teacher and strict disciplinarian.

The 39-year-old tenured science teacher testified as his defense opened its case at dismissal hearings before Administrative Law Judge Daniel McKeon.

Thirteen middle school students early last week said that Mr. Campbell told them that he endorsed separating the races, and that he told a black student that he would have to give him his "black students at Princeton speech."

Mr. Campbell said he told the youngster that they should discuss the special problems black students face at Princeton High School. He also denied tickling or kicking a ninth-grade female student in the buttocks two years ago. The student and a classmate had testified about the incident in an earlier hearing.

In testimony on Monday, the teacher said that almost all the students and administrators the school district has produced as witnesses against him have falsely accused him.

Princeton Regional has charged Mr. Campbell with unprofessional and unbecoming behavior for allegedly making racist and sexist remarks to students in the fall. The nine-count complaint also alleges that Mr. Campbell pushed and shoved students, twisted students' arms, and shouted verbal abuse.

School District Attorney Mark Blunda, in cross-examination Monday, pointed out that Mr. Campbell's past performance evaluations had urged him to work on his professional demeanor. He asked if that didn't show a problem with maturity and professional judgment.

Many of those observations, said Mr. Campbell, were taken out of context and were often never explained to him during evaluation conferences. He said he never followed up on them.

In other testimony on Monday, a teacher's aide testified that Mr. Campbell gave extra time after school to tutor minority pupils.

Tynetta Howard said Mr. Campbell had said his goals were to teach minority students and make sure they were up to the same level as anyone else.

Man at His Best — and Worst

"Fellow man at his best and worst," prefaced Ptl. Mark Emann, as he related the incident of the $900 leather lounge chair.

Shortly before five Friday afternoon two deliverymen for The Leather Gallery, 830 State Road, had finished their deliveries for the day and were heading back to the store. As their truck made a right turn off Ewing Street onto Route 206, a rear door flew open and the chair — unknown to the occupants — fell from the truck.

An unknown driver, Ptl. Emann reported, followed the truck to its destination on Route 206 and informed them that a chair had fallen from their truck.

However, by the time they returned to the intersection a short time later, the chair was gone.

Project Discovery Update At School Board Meeting

High School Principal Marylu Coviello was expected to provide an update on Project Discovery to the School Board at its meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, June 2.

Project Discovery brought 14 freshmen who had an observed lack of success in the regular school program into an alternative education pilot. Parental involvement was one component of the half-time program, which has been running for four months.

Dr. Coviello reports that 12 of the 14 students have shown marked improvement in attendance and academic achievement. And, despite initial student profiles indicating a history of disruptive behavior, ten of the 14 have had no incidents of disruptive classroom behavior in the four-month duration of the pilot program.

Parental response to the alternative education pilot has been "overwhelmingly positive," Dr. Coviello said.

Dr. Coviello was expected to ask the School Board to provide $45,300 to fund Project Discovery for freshmen and sophomores for the coming school year. She would like the program to include math instruction, since student achievement in the four class periods spent outside Project Discovery — including math — has been minimal.

Project Discovery would serve the current participants as well as approximately 12 to 15 incoming freshmen.

More Money Is Allocated To John Witherspoon

The School Board last week allocated approximately $156,000 for the 1992-93 school year to John Witherspoon Middle School. The money will go toward the fifth grade program.

Until last month, it was assumed that the fifth grade would return to the elementary schools in September, when Johnson Park School reopened. Since it is now known that Johnson Park will not be available for use until the 1993-94 school year, the fifth grade will remain in John Witherspoon until then.

Approximately $156,000 of the $424,000 budgeted for the opening of Johnson Park will be used to fund additional staff positions at John Witherspoon.

School Superintendent Carol Choye told the Board last Tuesday night that she expects several requests to add unhudgeted items to the budget in light of the Johnson Park delay. These would include a request for a librarian at the high school, for which a petition has already been received, and a request for additional grounds crew.

Several School Board members expressed strong reluctance to reopen the budget process.

Moving Out Thefts On University Campus

Three University students in the process of moving out for the summer break were the victims of thefts — all on Saturday.

One student lost a $250 Nikon camera and another reported her pocketbook and jewelry box were taken from her room in Holder Hall. She lost $20 in cash, a sapphire pendant worth $200 and four pairs of earrings valued at $50.

A resident of Laughlin Hall left a wooden frame folding chair valued at $75 in a hallway outside his room. It was taken within the half-hour.

An employee at Community Park School last week left her purse in an unlocked classroom. It was recovered the same day by a custodian in a boys' rest room, intact except for $15.

A Spruce Street resident last week left a cordless telephone resting on a fence post in his back yard. When he returned six hours later, the $100 phone had been stolen.

A 1981 VW Rabbit, stolen Saturday from the Spring Street Park & Shop lot between 4:30 and 11:15 p.m., was recovered around 2 a.m. on Quaker Road. There is evidence, said Capt. Peter Hanley, that the car was involved in a hit-and-run accident in the Mercer Mall lot.

The owner of the car, a 49-year-old Township resident, valued the car at $900. Lawrence Township police are investigating the accident.

Four bicycles, three in the Borough, were reported stolen last week. A $500 Cannondale mountain bike, locked to itself, was taken from outside a Greenview Avenue home; a $100 Myiata mountain bike from Witherspoon Hall, and a $30 bike from a rack outside Dillon Gym on the University campus.

Township police report a boy's five-speed bike in fair condition, valued at $50, was taken from the rear patio of a Juniper Row home. It was not locked.

Student Is Assaulted By Irritated Passenger

A 22-year-old Princeton University student from New York was assaulted early Sunday morning by a passenger in a car.

Police report that the student, accompanied by others, was handing out flyers on the corner of Washington Road and Prospect Avenue shortly before 1 a.m. When someone threw a couple of flyers at a car, a passenger took offense.

Police said the passenger, a white male, 25 to 30, with short dark hair, got out and approached the group. Words were exchanged and the victim was knocked to the ground. "He may have been kicked," said Capt. Peter Hanley. The victim, he said, declined medical attention.

Offices Are Entered On University Campus

During the last week in May, two offices in Dickinson Hall on the University campus were entered and police say an attempt was made to enter a third. All are located on the second floor.

In each instance, a wrench was used to force open the door handle. However, police report that nothing is missing.

In the Township, sometime overnight during the weekend someone entered a vacant, second-floor Birch Avenue apartment and stole a $400

Beware Solicitations, Says PBA

If someone making a solicitation in the Princeton area claims to have an affiliation with the Princeton Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, it probably isn't true.

Organizations and solicitors often use names which sound like the police agency or may make statements that can lead one to believe they are affiliated with the PBA, says Ptl. William R. Potts, a spokeman for PBA #130, which comprises the Borough, Township and Montgomery Township police departments.

Some of these organizations are misleading, some are illegal, adds Ptl. Potts. "You are being misled into contributing to something that does not help or reach the local PBA."

In their effort to stop organizations from taking unfair advantage of residents and the PBA name, police urge if anyone has any question or doubt as to whether or not an organization is affiliated with the PBA, call Borough police at 924-4141, Township police at 921-2100 or Montgomery police at 359-3222.

Telephone Worker Injured in Freak Accident

John Platt, a 40-year-old N.J. Bell Telephone workman from Howell is lifted from a manhole by members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, following a freak accident last Wednesday just before noon. A car operated by Princeton University student Shamus B. Freeman, 17, of 219 Forbes College, was exiting from the Gulf Station parking lot at the corner of Nassau and Murray Place when it swerved to avoid an unknown grey car traveling east on Nassau. In swerving, the car struck a three-foot high metal barricade rack and surrounding orange traffic cones that were protecting an open manhole where N.J. Bell workers were doing some underground cable work. As the car came to rest directly over the open manhole, its front bumper struck a four-foot box containing cable casing weighing between 25 to 30 pounds that was resting just a few inches from the open manhole. Knocked into the manhole, the box fell about four feet before striking Mr. Platt in his lower left back. Complaining of pain to his lower back, neck and right arm, he was immobilized, strapped to a harness and winched out of the manhole before being transported to the Medical Center for treatment for back strain by Dr. Dennis Price. He was released about 4 PM. The driver was issued a summons for careless driving. (Nik Habicht Photo)

Shuttle Van Is Target Of Pellet Gun Shooter

The driver of a shuttle van owned by Princeton Medical Center told police his windshield was struck by a pellet while he was driving in the afternoon on Valley Road near Jefferson Road.

The driver was not injured. He told Det. John Petrone Jr. that he saw no one nor any car in the area.

His window was down, added the driver, when he heard what he thought was the sound of a pellet gun being fired. The pellet, when it struck, left a chip and a crack in the windshield.

It was the second incident of a pellet shooting in the Township in the past month.

Township Traffic Court Levies Seven Fines

Seven Princeton area residents were fined last week in Township traffic court.

Revia J. Louis, 75 Clay Street, was fined $525 by Judge Samuel Sachs for driving while her license was suspended, had her license revoked for another 30 days and was fined $50 for contempt of court.

Christine W. Kitto, 38 Hornor Lane, and Elsa A. Soderberg, Province Line Road, each paid $70 for obstructing passage.

Fined for speeding were Oliver M. Frot, 37 Southern Way, and Adam P. Hermann, Forbes College, Princeton University, both $70, and Shalia V. Vidwans, 8 Weathersford Drive, Plainsboro, $90.

A stop sign violation cost Robert W. Cornell, 603 Ravens Crest Drive, Plainsboro, $75.

Judge Appoints Receiver For Nassau St. Property

Papers have been filed in Superior Court to foreclose on the building at 264 Nassau Street, owned by Developer Eric Keller.

Constant "Frenchy" Gianacaci holds the mortgage on the property, on the corner of Nassau and Maple Streets. Mr. Keller bought the former Gulf station from Mr. and Mrs. Gianacaci and added to it a Victorian house moved from across Nassau Street.

On Friday, Superior Court Judge Paul Levy granted the appointment of a receiver for the property, which Mr. Keller had originally planned to turn into a drive-in bank. The receiver will collect rent and pay taxes and insurance.

Mr. Keller has also not kept up with tax payments. Mr. Gianacaci paid the property tax in 1989 and 1990. Taxes for 1991 and the first half of 1992 are still owed.

Mr. Keller is also facing difficulties with another of his properties, The Lambertville House in Lambertville. It is scheduled to be auctioned July 6 to recover $275,000 in an unpaid mortgage owed to United Jersey Bank.

Also included will be an opportunity to arrange for an appointment to meet with a volunteer financial professional to discuss developing a plan toward achieving personal goals.

The workshop is being conducted as a free community service by Accountants for the Public Interest-New Jersey, a nonprofit community service organization, and underwritten by Merrill Lynch Bank & Trust Co., Plainsboro.

Pioneer Pilot to Speak At Stuart Graduation

This year's graduation speaker at Stuart Country Day School will be the pioneer pilot Jeana Yeager. Ms. Yeager will address seniors, their parents and guests Monday at 5 at an outdoor ceremony.

Ms. Yeager and her partner Dick Rutan built, tested and flew the experimental airplane Voyager to a world record. In July 1986 they flew Voyager on a 116-hour flight, setting a new closed course, absolute world distance record. For this achievement they were awarded the Presidential Citizen's Medal of Honor by President Ronald Reagan. Top honors outside the United States include the Gold Medal from the Royal Aero Club of the United Kingdom and the Medale de Ville Paris and Grande Medallion from the Aero Club of France.

Today, after years of accomplishment in helicopter and airplane flying, Ms. Yeager works to advance aerospace education, especially among the young, and to found the Voyager Center, a museum that will provide hands-on projects to inspire and inform citizens of all ages.

Stuart graduation day will begin with a senior class liturgy at 9 a.m., followed by upper school prizes at 10.

Mercer Lake to Be Site Of Olympic Rowing Trial

Carnegie Lake Rowing Association of Princeton is the local host organizing committee for Olympic and World Championship rowing trials that will be held on Mercer Lake this weekend and July 10 to 12.

The trials are part of the selection process set up by the United States Rowing Association to select National Team athletes who will represent the United States at the Olympic Summer Games in Barcelona in late July and the World Championships for lightweight and junior rowers to be held in Montreal in August.

Jeana Yeager

This weekend there will be Olympic trials to select the men's single scull, the open women's double and women's pair without coxswain. World Championship trials will also be held to select the lightweight women's single scull, and there will be speed order racing for additional lightweight men's and women's small boats. Heats begin Friday morning at 7 and continue Friday evening at 7. The finals for the Olympic trials are scheduled for Saturday morning at 9. Additional speed order racing will take place Sunday morning at 7.

Carnegie Lake Rowing Association is a community organization that provides supervised sweep oar and sculling opportunities on Lake Carnegie by special arrangement with Princeton University. The club was selected by the U.S. Rowing Association as the local host organizing committee because of its experience hosting its own annual invitational regatta and assisting at Princeton University crew races.

During the weekend, club members will assist USRowing officials in running what amounts to a series of 2,000-meter races, one after another. They will supervise boat weighins and dock launchings, assist at the start and the finish line, drive the motor launches carrying race referees, and act as time-keepers and drug testing couriers.

The club has arranged for housing for the athletes and the officials and will provide breakfast each morning. Following the awarding of medals to the winners of the trials, a cookout is planned for athletes and their families. The club commissioned Princeton artist and former Princeton University rowing coach Kit Raymond to design a T-shirt which it will sell at the trials.

Mercer Lake, which is in Mercer County Park, off Hughes Drive, West Windsor, was first used for National Team trials in 1985. There are good vantage points along the shore from which to view the races on the six-lane buoyed course. The public is invited to watch as some of the nation's finest rowers compete for the honor of representing the U.S. at the Olympics.

For further information, call the Carnegie Lake Rowing Association "Laker Line," 683-1618.

NOTHING LEFT TO SAVE: Firemen hose down the remains of the barn from every angle, but the structure and all its contents, including some items for the June Fete, belonging to the Princeton Medical Center, were a total loss. A lack of water pressure at first forced pumper trucks to be called in from neighboring communities. (Pres Eckmeder photo)

Then the building seemed to explode and become engulfed in flames.

Intense Heat

So intense was the heat, said Princeton Fire Chief Joseph Meyers, that it was blistering the paint on their trucks.

The wood in the old barn was so old and dry it was like a match, he said. It collapsed in a heap of charred fragments, with only the chimney standing, about 20 minutes after firemen arrived.

Firemen from Princeton's three volunteer fire companies, Chief Myers said, were hampered at first by a low water pressure of 25 to 30 pounds. Normal pressure is 80 to 100.

Once housing a blacksmith shop, the barn was presently being used as a storage facility, according to PMC spokeswoman Jane Kerney. In it at the time, in addition to the lawn mower equipment, were 250 plastic garbage cans plus some cable and electric poles that were to be used for the 39th an-

Golf, Tennis and Polo To Help Lung Association

The Hillsborough Country Club will be the setting for the American Lung Association of Mid-New Jersey's Third Annual Country Classic on Friday.

The fundraising event will include a golf outing (shotgun start at 12), tennis tournament at 1, and a polo match at 6, followed by a Barn Bash Barbecue with live entertainment from the Daisy Jug Band.

The fee for golf is $130 per person for the whole day of activities. Tennis is $75 per person for the whole day. The polo match, Barn Bash Barbecue dinner and dance is $35. To attend the polo match only is $10.

The Gosling's Black Seal Rum Polo Match will be an eight-goal match headed by team captain, Bryce Thompson, owner of Hillsborough Country Club and Thompson Land Company. His team will compete against the South Hampton Polo Club of Long Island led by captain Frank McNamara.

Funds raised from the Country Classic help support the Lung Association's community programs, such as asthma camps for children, Freedom from Smoking classes, Better Breather support groups for those with serious lung disease, and the Clean Air Challenge.

For further information, call the Lung Association at 452-2112.

Friday Fire Levels Barn 1,500 Feet from Merwick

A quick-acting fire early Friday afternoon, which sent searing flames 70 feet into the air, leveled a storage barn that was located some 1,500 feet from Merwick House off Bayard Lane. No one was injured but the unoccupied barn, built at the turn of the century, was destroyed.

Police and Borough Fire Official William Drake have described the fire as possibly suspicious. "We are continuing to look at it," said Capt. Peter Hanley on Tuesday, "based on some evidence found at the scene."

Police, the Borough Fire Marshal, and the Mercer County Arson Unit are continuing the investigation, Capt. Hanley said, because in addition to gasoline for lawn mower equipment that was in the barn, "we are trying to determine if something else was in there that burned."

"At this point," continued Capt. Hanley, "we're just trying to determine the cause. We're not saying it was arson but suspicious enough to say we are continuing the investigation. There are no suspects; we're not sure there was a crime."

Mr. Drake concurred that he found evidence to indicate the origin of the fire was possibly suspicious. He has turned over his investigation to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

The initial fire call was received at police headquarters at 1:16. Peter Root, a maintenance man at Merwick, the 93-bed nursing home unit of Princeton Medical Center that provides long-term care, said that he had filled a lawn mower in the barn with gasoline at 12:50 but did not notice anything.

An early witness said at first there were just some signs of smoke and it appeared that it would not amount to anything.

nual Hospital Fete on June 13.

In April, Merwick was cited for 65 fire code violations but Ms. Kerney said that the barn was not involved. About 80 percent of the violations have been corrected by the Medical Center which has until August 31 to complete the work.

Patients at Merwick were not evacuated because of the distance of the barn from the main Merwick building, which was donated to the Medical Center in the 1950s. The barn was donated at the same time.

Ms. Kerney said that the Medical Center has plans to rebuild at the barn's location. It was too early, she said, to estimate the damage amount.

Drug Charges Sent On To Prosecutor's Office

Various drug charges — including possession and intent to distribute marijuana within a school zone — against six Princeton University students have been forwarded to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office. The six were arrested following a 5 a.m. police raid May 19 in an apartment house at 17 Olden Street.

Steven Barton, 22, a former University student, Kent Strong, 21, and Lawton Bloom, 21, all of 17 Olden Street, were charged with the most serious offenses and face possible indictment by a Grand Jury.

They have been charged by Borough police with possession, distribution with intent to sell and growing marijuana, as well as possession and intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school zone (St. Paul's). Conviction of drug charges within a school zone carries an automatic three-year sentence.

Arraigned Monday night in Borough court were Matthew Sanders, 21, of 15 Olden Street, charged with possession of marijuana, and Joseph Mainelli, 20, of Little Hall, charged with possession and possession of drug paraphernalia. A senior at the University, Sanders will be allowed to graduate on Tuesday, according to his attorney Edward J. Bergman. Neither Sanders nor Mainelli issued a plea in Borough court because their charges have been referred to the County.

A sixth student, William Semins, 20, charged with possession of a methamphetamine, was not present in court. He is also represented by Mr. Bergman.

The six were arrested following the culmination of a six-week police investigation into the distribution of drugs in the Olden Street area.

Thrift Drug Purchases Montgomery Pharmacy

Thrift Drug, a subsidiary of J.C. Penney Co., has purchased the Montgomery Pharmacy and entered into a long-term lease with Hilton Realty Co., owner and manager of Montgomery Shopping Center on Route 206, just north of the intersection of Route 518, Rocky Hill.

Constructed in phases, commencing in the late '60s, the Montgomery Shopping Center is scheduled for a major reconstruction due to begin this year. The approved plans include a signalized light, 42,000 square feet of new retail space and extensive landscaping throughout the new parking lot.

Hilton Realty has also announced that ORS Automation Inc. has signed a long-term lease extension at Research Park, opposite Princeton Airport. Research Park consists of more than 400,000 square feet of space with nearly 90 companies leasing space.

Sewer Service Sought For Golf Community

The Lawrence Planning Board was scheduled to hold a special meeting Tuesday night as TOWN TOPICS went to press to consider an application to include a proposed 366-unit country club community in the municipal sewer service area.

Hopelawe Properties of Tampa, Fla., a partnership involving J. Robert Sierra, is proposing to develop the 812 acres formerly owned by AT&T in Lawrence and Hopewell Townships as an 18-hole championship golf course entwining up to 366 clustered single family homes. The homes would be priced from $650,000 to $900,000, according to a revised development plan on file at the Lawrence Planning Board.

Straddling the Lawrence/Hopewell line, the property is bounded on the north by Blackwell Road, on the east by Cold Soil Road. To the south is Keefe Road and to the west, Federal City Road. Most of the property is in open fields, with 30 percent in woods.

AT&T operated an overseas transmission station on the property until the late 1970s. Farming was encouraged underneath the network of wires and between the transmission structures and poles. When the overseas transmission station operation was discontinued, the land continued to be leased by AT&T for farming purposes to obtain a low property tax rate.

The plan prepared for Hopelawe Properties calls for a luxury private membership golf course and country club, featuring an 18-hole championship golf course, a tennis center, swim pavillion and club house. A low density residential development is planned, with many homesites overlooking the golf course. The developer would select a limited number of local residential builders who would design homes for purchasers of the lots.

Hopelawe needs approval of the Lawrence Township Council to be included in Ewing-Lawrence Service Authority's (ELSA) sewer service area. The cluster plan and the number of lots are dependent on an extension of the sewer service area.

A year ago, after hearing from the principal of the environmental consulting firm it asked to review the ELSA Wastewater Management Plan and its treatment capacity, the Planning Board approved a resolution which said that it "may recommend a change in the sewer service area boundary upon comprehensive review of an application from Hopelawe." Knowing that Hopelawe will soon be pressing its case, Lawrence Township Council has asked the Planning Board for a "definitive recommendation."

Several Approvals Needed

If sewer is granted it will be the first of several approvals required. The proposal will require General Development Plan approval from the Planning Board as well as subsequent preliminary and final site plan approval. There will also have to be modifications of the zoning requirements to permit some smaller lots and some redistribution of lots from Lawrence to Hopewell for an increase in open space.

The 490 acres in Lawrence are currently zoned EP (Environmental Protection District), while the 322 acres in Hopewell are zoned R-200 for residential use. Septic systems are intended in Hopewell, whereas in Lawrence the intention seems to be very low density or agricultural use. Revised plans show 200 lots in Lawrence and 159 in Hopewell, for a total of 359, although it is also stated that the possible total yield is 366 lots.

If sewer is extended and the area is to be developed, the State Development and Redevelopment Plan Cross Acceptance Map will also have to be amended. The property is currently shown as being in Planning Area 4, an area "not contemplated to have sewer."

It would be amended to Planning Area 2, for which one of the criteria describes land contiguous to the metropolitan planning area where it can be demonstrated that natural and planned infrastructure can support development.

In a letter to the Lawrence Planning Board urging the extension of sewer service, Mark Solomon of the firm Jamieson, Peskin and Spicer, attorney for Hopelawe in this application, points out the benefits to Lawrence Township. Given the Council on Affordable Housing's recent ruling allowing municipalities to assess a fee of one half of one percent of the equalized assessed value of each unit for affordable, Lawrence could realize $3250 per unit for its affordable housing trust fund, or a total of $700,000.

Mr. Solomon also underscores the financial impact analysis prepared by the developer that says that the

John/Clay Street Park Redesigned

The children's park and playground on the corner of John and Clay Streets, in one of the Borough's most densely populated neighborhoods, is currently undergoing major redesign and renovation. Work is expected to be completed by the beginning of July.

The park, which slopes down from Lytle to Clay Street, will be made up of three sections. The first, beginning at the Lytle Steet entrance, will feature a terrace area with five picnic tables and a brick patio. The center area, which includes a wading pool, will be site of additional tables, with a wooden canopy over them. Bicycle racks are also planned.

The third section, a step down from the pool, will include a new play structure and a sand play area with "funimals," those bouncing animals on giant springs.

The renovation is being financed through park improvement money that has already been ordinanced. Additional funds will be provided by the State Neighborhood Preservation project.

Much of the work will be done by the Borough's public works crew. The park was designed by the Borough's Engineering Department.

Recording for the Blind Gets Gift for Studio

The Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind has received a $35,000 grant from the J. Seward Johnson Sr. Charitable Trusts towards construction of a new satellite studio.

The four-booth recording satellite will be located at 20 Roszel Road, where the national Recording for the Blind is located. Groundbreaking is scheduled for later this spring. The satellite studio will bring to 10 the total number of recording booths to be operated by the Princeton Unit.

According to Peter Putnam, chairman of the Princeton Unit's fund-raising committee, the gift from the Charitable Trusts will give significant impetus for raising the remaining $140,000 of the $350,000 goal. The Unit expects to recruit more volunteers, especially readers in the sciences, to man the additional booths.

The main studio of the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind is located at 36-A Hibben Road, at Princeton Theological Seminary facilities. The telephone number is 921-6534.

A Family Bike Tour In Hunterdon County

No Entree for Entree

There was some mayhem at the Main Street Cafe in the Princeton Sbopping Center during the weekend when a couple was denied access to the closed restaurant.

A manager was cleaning up just after midnight Saturday morning, Ptl. Mark Emann reported, when she beard someone banging on the mall side door. She looked up and saw a couple who wanted to enter. When the manager told them they were closed, the couple kept banging away. She left to get the other manager.

When they returned they found the glass in the $800 front door had been fractured. "Apparently the door had been kicked," said Ptl. Emann.

The couple were described as a white male and female both 17 to 20. The male had curly blonde hair and was wearing a yellow polo shirt; the female had long, naturally curly brown hair. The area was checked by Ptl. Michael Henderson but the suspects were not found.

Police Video Tape

comment. She notes that at the time Civil Rights Director Joan Hill was arrested on a DWI charge, a tape was available and members of Committee viewed it.

When Committee heard from Mr. Schmierer that a tape was available in this instance, she and Mr. Porter asked to see it. She explains that her request to see the tape of Mr. Annich being charged was an effort to clear up the rumors. "I felt this professional, this judge, should not be evaluated [by Committee] by what we were reading in the newspapers," Mrs. Souter says.

Borough Police Capt. Peter Hanley said on Tuesday that the Borough attorney has advised the Police Department not to show the tape, which will be held for a while and then erased and reused. Capt. Hanley explained that during the processing of Mr. Annich at the police station, one officer slipped and fell, injuring his wrist.

The incident occured just before the judge took the breathalyzer test, the only portion of the processing that is actually filmed. The second officer was not injured, he said.

The injury was not a break, Capt. Hanley continued. The wrist has been immobilized for treatment of a stretched tendon, and the officer has been temporarily assigned to dispatch duty while it heals. According to Capt. Hanley, "There was no criminal activity, no resisting of arrest, and no assault taking place.

"Judge Annich was charged with DWI and careless driving," he said. "I am not aware of any other violation. Judge Annich was processed and treated just the same as anyone else."

Mr. Porter is not satisfied. "If that's the case, why can't I see the tapes?" he asks.

Mr. Porter says he initiated the request to view the tape and to interview the arresting officers because he too "did not want to make an evaluation of any township employee based solely on press clippings. I felt it important to view the DWI tape myself and to talk to the arresting officers directly in order to make an informed opinion.

"Unhappily the Borough has seen fit to deny access to this material — which only leads me to believe that what happened at the police station was more serious than has been reported to date."

Nude Olympians

one is left: a student who had his hearing adjourned until September because of a death in the family.

All of the students faced fines of up to $1,500 and seven months in jail and a criminal record under the original charges of lewdness and disorderly conduct. However, under a plea bargain agreement with Borough Prosecutor Marc Citron, the lewdness and disorderly charges were dropped and the students agreed to plead guilty to violating a Borough disorderly persons ordinance. None will have any criminal record.

Mr. Citron indicated that he agreed to the lesser charges as a warning because this is the first year that Borough police had issued summonses and he did not want them to have a criminal record.

Next year, Mr. Citron warned, he would not be inclined to be so lenient. Students, who participate in the Nude Olympics and are subsequently charged, will be prosecuted, he said, to the fullest extent of the law. .

Embarrassed Themselves

Judge Sachs told the 21 student defendants that they had crossed the line and had embarrassed themselves when they shed their clothes and ran across Nassau Street. "While you are spending your 18 hours, think about the ruckus you created for a little bit of fun."

Judge Sachs added that he felt their conduct went from being a prank to a public affront. He warned that jail was possible for those who failed to perform their community service either in Princeton or in their home communities.

Attorney Alan Medvin who has represented the students was critical of the police tactics, saying the police ought to re-evaluate their priorities.

Noting that the Borough does not have a nudity ban, Mr. Medvin pointed out there was not one witness who made a statement claiming to be offended by the Nude Olympians' conduct.

Started in the 1970s to celebrate the season's first snowfall, the Nude Olympics has grown to an event in which an estimated 400 students, a third of them female, participate. As estimated 100, naked except for shoes and hats, left the campus and crossed Nassau Street.

One group entered the J.B. Winberie Restaurant where a $1,500 stained glass window was broken, marking the first year of any serious damage.

Mr. Citron summed up by commenting if students want to continue the tradition, they should remain on campus.

Groundbreaking Planned For Seminary Library

There will be a groundbreaking ceremony for Princeton Theological Seminary's new Henry Luce III Library Tuesday at 10 a.m. The ceremony will take place at the site adjacent to the present Speer Library at Library Place and Mercer streets.

The library is named for the chairman and chief executive officer of The Henry Luce Foundation, Inc., in New York City, who has been a member of the Seminary's board of trustees since 1965. His grandfather, Henry Winters Luce, an 1898 Seminary graduate, was distinguished for longtime missionary service in China.

Approved by the Princeton Regional Planning Board in early April, the three-story, 40,000-square-foot building will double the size of the present Robert E. Speer Library. According to Seminary librarian James Armstrong, Speer Library is "rapidly reaching its capacity. The Luce library will make anticipated growth possible well into the 21st century, as well as meet needs for archival material, research, and rare book collections."

Princeton Borough Mayor Marvin R. Reed will attend the ceremony and address the guests.

Gifts have been provided by The Henry Luce Foundation, Inc., and William H. Scheide, a longtime trustee of the Seminary and benefactor of the Scheide Library at Princeton University, to make the new Seminary library possible. The architect for the building is Alan Chimacoff, a principal in The Hillier Group.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony and the reception that will follow.

Commencement Monday For Seminary Graduates

Princeton Theological Seminary held its 180th Commencement exercises on Monday at the Princeton University Chapel. Two hundred nine men and women received degrees.

Dr. Peter J. Gomes, Plummer Professor of Christian Morals and minister of the Memorial Church at Harvard University, delivered the Commencement address.

The Seminary conferred 104 Master of Divinity degrees, 67 Master of Theology degrees, eight master of arts degrees, 12 Doctor of Ministry degrees and 18 Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

Seminar Is Scheduled At Familyborn Center

Familyborn, the Mildred Morgan Center for Birth and Women's Health on Wiggins Street, will conduct a two-day seminar titled "The Baby Question."

The program will take place on Monday, June 15, and Monday, June 22 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The professional staff will discuss such issues as: what to do if you cannot conceive; how to know if you need to have genetic testing; how to reduce the chances of having a Caesarean section; choosing between a midwife or an obstetrician, and other issues.

Tuition is $25 per couple and will be applied to prenatal fees at Familyborn. Enrollment is limited. Call 683-5100 to register or for additional information.

Offense Against Repose

Jeff Zawadsky, a 21-year-old Hodge Road resident, faces a hearing in Borough court on June 15th, for offending the repose of neighbors.

Zawadsky was arrested early Saturday morning in a residence at 12½ Vandeventer Avenue, after a neighbor called police at 3:30 to complain of an electric guitar being played at high volume. Police located the source and charged Zawadsky with violating the Borough's noise ordinance section concerning amplified music that "offends the repose of neighbors."

A LONG CAREER REWARDED: Josef Silverstein, retiring Rutgers professor, receives the Asian Career Achievement Award from Marvin Suomi, chairman of Princeton in Asia and senior vice president of Kajima International.

Princeton-in-Asia Bestows Career Achievement Award

Princeton-in-Asia bestowed its Asian Career Achievement Award on Josef Silverstein, 93 Overbrook Drive, last week during the organization's annual dinner.

Dr. Silverstein recently retired from Rutgers University after a 30-year teaching career in the field of Southeast Asian politics. He's particularly well known for research and publications on Myanmar, including entries in Collier's Encylopedia and frequent editorials in the Asian Wall Street Journal and International Herald Tribune.

In recent years Dr. Silverstein has continued to cross the border from Thailand to Mayanmar to conduct research with minority and other groups in opposition to military rule in Myanmar, despite warnings and threats from that regime.

Princeton-in-Asia is a nonprofit organization based at Princeton University which has promoted greater understanding between the U.S. and Asian nations for 94 years. The primary activity of the organization is the placement of 80 to 90 young Americans annually in teaching and working internships throughout Asia.

The 1992 annual dinner also served as the passing of the executive director's position from Robert Pease to Margaret Hazlett. Mr. Pease has been in the position since 1989 and will leave to pursue a Fulbright Scholarship in Singapore. Ms. Hazlett has been assistant director at P-i-A for a year, having previously held P-i-A teaching posts in Bangkok and Kyoto.

The keynote address at the dinner was given by Assistant Secretary of Defense, James R. Lilley, former U.S. Ambassador to South Korea and the People's Republic of China. Mr. Lilley entitled his address "A Tale of Two Cities." He contrasted the successful democratization process in Korea engendered by student protests in 1987 with the failure of similar Chinese protests to produce political change in 1989.

Volunteers Are Honored By the Library Staff

At a tea on Friday, the staff of the Princeton Public Library honored several dozen volunteers whose gifts of time — nearly 500 hours in a recent month — have helped maintain service to the public and freed library employees for other duties.

The use of volunteers at the library has grown dramatically in the past two years: from a total of 74 hours in the month of June, 1990, to the present numbers. Under the direction of Connie Frazee and Jean McDonough, coordinators of the volunteer committee of the Friends of the Library, volunteers are now working in many areas of library service — in Technical and Information Services, the Children's Department, the Home Reader Program, and the Literacy Program — as well as answering phones, shelving, and filing.

Despite the steady growth in the number of tasks done by volunteers at the library, Ms. Frazee sees no leveling off in the demand for their services, whether for ongoing assignments or short-term projects. Shelvers, shelf-readers, and people to answer the phones at the circulation desk, especially in the afternoons and evenings, are always welcomed. Information Services and Technical Services use volunteers in a variety of ways, such as updating the card catalogue, staffing the periodical room, entering data into the computer system, or organizing the audio and video cassettes and compact disks.

And for the volunteers who enjoy working with people on a one-to-one basis, the Home Reader Program, under Ms. McDonough, brings library services to Princeton residents confined at home or in nursing homes, and the Literacy Program, headed by Jean Friedmann, pairs tutors with adults seeking to improve their reading ability.

Ms. Frazee emphasizes that, although most volunteers have no training in library work, the committee does try to match individual skills and interests with particular jobs. A retired librarian, for instance, handles Inter-Library Loan requests. Two women considering career changes and the possible pursuit of a library science degree are learning about behind-the-scenes library work at first hand. Most volunteers, though, simply enjoy the library atmosphere or the company of others who share their love of books.

Information about volunteering at the library and applications are available at the reference desk in the library or by calling 924-9529.

Junk Mail Recycling

Mercer County residents may now place junk mail at the curb on regular recycling collection days. Junk mail must be tied in bundles, with magazines, in order to be collected. It cannot be placed in bags.

Residents are urged to combine junk mail with their magazines and tie them in small bundles with string or twine for collection. Junk mail includes mail order catalogs, envelopes (with or without windows), white and colored paper, glossy paper and inserts, coupons, NCR paper and advertising circulars.

Last week, the Mercer County Improvement Authority announced it will be the first county in New Jersey to begin countywide curbside collection of grass clippings.

Washington Crossing Audubon invites the public to witness the majesty of North America's largest raptor, the California condor, at its final slide program of the season, on Monday.

Dr. Victor Apanius, a lecturer in the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology at Princeton University, worked with the condor Research Program, sponsored by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and National Audubon, in its sometimes controversial efforts to rescue the handful of remaining California condors from the brink of extinction.

The audience will see the southern California landscape as the condor sees it, peek inside nesting caves, watch the feeding of young and learn how scientists are dealing with one of the greatest conservation challenges ever.

Dr. Apanius offers a unique perspective as one who has worked closely with this critically endangered species.

The program, "To Save Condors or Condor Culture," will begin at 8 p.m. in Stainton Hall, The Pennington School, Delaware Avenue, Pennington. Everyone is invited to come any time after 7:30 for refreshments. After a two-month hiatus, Audubon's program series will resume in September.

Hospital Fete Program Outrageous & Offensive

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am outraged and frightened by the advertisement on page 1 of the Hospital Fete "Mardi Gras" program. The "Five Good Reasons" to attend include that it will be followed by "40 days of Summer to really accumulate sins." Proverbs 14:9 provides an apt comment. "Fools make a mock of sin."

Do the staff of the Medical Center or the Trustees want the world and, in particular, their patients, clients and customers, to think that they advocate the Hospital Fete as a launch pad for sin? Do they want to offend anyone who respects the Lenten season and the idea of atonement? (The ad mentions "Followed by 40 days of Lent to atone for sins" in New Orleans as a reason why Mardi Gras is better in Princeton.) Do the staff and Trustees want to insult the entire State of Louisiana by the wildly incorrect statement that Mardi Gras in New Orleans "Takes place in the hot and steaming swamps ..."?

The advertisement goes on that the carnival in New Orleans "Benefits the great tax coffers of the State of Louisiana" as another reason why Mardi Gras in Princeton is better. Do the staff and Trustees want to denigrate the benefits brought to society by Louisiana State University and other recipients of Louisiana tax revenue?

I am all too aware that the Trustees can no more check each page of the Hospital Fete program than check multitudinous other details of the activities of the Medical Center. (The sender address and the mailing permit number on the back cover show the responsibility of the Center for the program).

Explaining the appearance of the advertisement as an oversight in Public Relations, however, compounds my concern. Recently, a senior member of the administration of the Center afforded me the courtesy of nearly 90 minutes' discussion of some details of medical performance at the Center that had bothered me.

I was assured that the Center actively seeks comments, even downright criticisms, and that these are explored, and reports are written and filed in the office of the Vice President — to my surprise — for Public Relations. This ensures that all the reports are at hand, for the Public Relations office to determine when trends become sufficiently apparent to warrant action.

If the "Five Good Reasons" raise doubts about the omniscience and infallibility of Public Relations at the Medical Center, need this lessen our confidence in the future of its medical error-correcting process?

Public Should Be Aware Of Crossroads Theater

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Does everyone know about the beautiful new Crossroads Theater in New Brunswick? Its current play, The Talented Tenth, has just given me an absorbing evening and a chance to feel more about relations between blacks and whites.

It was enlightening to see educated blacks, economically on top, living their lives and facing their problems, some of which are exactly like ours, some within their own race — just like us.

The acting was animated and perceptive, creating distinct characters. (I'd walk a mile any day to see the star, Avery Brooks.) The setting was ingenious and effective. The experience of sitting in an audience as one of the minority is something to look for if you've never had it. Pleasant. And I learned something from who laughs at what.

Morgan Freeman, who drove Miss Daisy, was in the audience, unannounced. Rosa Parks has been there, too.

Memorial Day Parade Supporters Are Thanked

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week's TOWN TOPICS (May 27) displayed on page 20 a photograph of the Color Guard of Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, marching in the Memorial Day Parade on Nassau Street at a point just east of the intersection of University Place, on Friday evening, May 22, at about 7:20 p.m.

Fire Victims Thank Community for Help

To the Editor, Town Topics:

We wish to thank our neighbors, town employees, and friends who helped and offered support to us during the recent fire in our new home. The Red Cross and Carnegie Center Day Care were organizations who really made a difference.

It's nice to know we have relocated to a community whose citizens respond like this to a family with a problem.

DENNIS & SIMONE STARK
72 Henry Avenue

The guard was composed of the following members: Right Rifleman, Roman Charydczak (World War II) in American Legion uniform; American Flag, Daniel P. Dalton Jr. (Vietnam) in 82nd Airborne Division, U.S. Army, paratrooper uniform; American Legion Colors, Armand E. Lembo (Vietnam) in Fireman, Third Class, U.S. Navy uniform; Left Rifleman, Ben Thompson (Desert Storm), Military Police Company, 50th Armored Division, New Jersey National Guard, in full dress uniform.

We thank you, Town Topics, the municipal officials of Princeton Borough, Princeton Township, and West Windsor Township, the various marching units, and the people of Princeton and surrounding communities, who support us in our programs to pay homage to those who have made the supreme sacrifice for the United States of America. We appreciate all those persons who came out that Friday evening to observe the Parade or participate in the patriotic exercises in front of the Washington Monument and the Princeton Borough Hall.

Senior Citizens Support Suzanne Patterson Center

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter sent to Princeton Borough Council and Township Committee.

We have recently heard that funding for the Suzanne Patterson Center has been questioned by members of the governing body of the Borough of Princeton, and we, a group of Senior Citizens who use the Center regularly, would like to say a few words to those who perhaps are not so familiar with the Center as we are.

The Center is open every day and is used by a large number of people who have come to rely upon it as a place to socialize and feel at home.

We come on Tuesdays and Thursdays for the Bridge Group, but also for two or three special events a month as well as a full daily program. We can come and go as we please, and feel that the Center is there for us when we need it. There are plants in the Center in winter and a beautiful garden to enjoy in summer.

Gillian Godfrey, the Director, writes a news letter which she sends to us with a detailed calendar of events every month. Our suggestions are welcomed, and we feel we have a say in the selection of events. There used to be difficulty in parking, but the parking lot behind Morven has now become available to us.

Let us end our letter by saying that as taxpayers and residents of Princeton we would like it to be known that the Suzanne Patterson Center is important to us, and we wish its doors to remain open for us indefinitely without question.

News of the THEATRES

New Children's Theater Makes Its Debut at PDS

"There are lots of regional theater companies out there doing children's theater," says Thomas von Oehsen, director of the after school physical theater program held at Princeton Day School, "but where are the kids? Everyone associated with the company is an adult except the audience. I believe that kids themselves can create good theater for kids."

That is exactly what he has done in his after-school drama program for middle schoolers in Princeton. Mr. von Oehsen has set an ambitious goal, the creation and presentation of a two-act play by the 20 children in his program.

The result, Double Play an action adventure with a touch of mystery, will be presented Friday and Saturday, June t2 and 13, at 7 p.m. at Princeton Day School.

"This is a non-traditional dramatics arts program," says Mr. von Oehsen. "It's very physical because middle school kids need an outlet for their tremendous energy. Mr. von Oehsen, who formerly taught middle school drama at PDS, says he remembers what he was like at that age — "a bundle of energy, an explosion waiting to happen. I needed some way to channel all that vitality into something other than being the class clown."

His own experience with theater didn't begin until high school, where in addition to participating in the drama program, he was an athlete and All State lacrosse player. After graduation, he attended the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Clown College in Venice, Fla. As the youngest student in the intensive three-month program he studied make-up, costume design, prop construction, and natural gags, but he excelled at the physical circus skills — stilt walking, juggling, unicycling, elephant riding, pratfalls, and slapstick. Upon graduating from the program, he attended the University of Pennsylvania and studied mask theater in Paris.

At the heart of Mr. von Oehsen's program are circus skills. "Kids love slapstick and pratfalls. They love to be told that there is a right way to fall off a chair, to learn how to be thrown off stage or to stage fight" he says:

Dancing Also Taught

Dancing, another physical skill the children learn, is handled mainly by co-director Ev Therrien, a professional actress and dancer who is currently appearing in Cabaret at Niels New Yorker Dinner Theater. "Almost none of these kids have a dance background" says Ms. Therrien. "A lot of them, especially the boys, start by saying that they don't want to dance.

"We tell them to try it, and if they don't like it after they've given it a fair chance, tbey don't have to dance. Not only do they come around to wanting to dance, but when we walk down the halls we see them teaching the steps to their friends."

Middle school, the co-directors believe, is the perfect time to begin a dramatics arts program. "Kids this age have amazing imaginations and they aren't worried about looking stupid, as they might be when they are older. They also are capable of handling quite a lot of responsibility if it is introduced to them correctly," says Ms. Therrien.

One problem, however, is that there is little appropriate material available for this age group. "They need to perform material that emotionally involves them and addresses their interests as kids," Mr. von Oehsen says.

Improv Work

Because of their dissatisfaction with the plays available, the program uses original material developed by the students themselves. "We do a lot of improv work," says Mr. von Oehsen. "Students start by developing a character performing an activity. Then we work to get that character aware of the activities of the other characters on stage.

"Finally we introduce a situation that creates urgency, something that the kids can relate to and care about. Emotionally something happens and we encourage the kids to express that with a lot of physicalness."

In Double Play, an energetic band of underground swindlers sets up a ring to steal rare and valuable baseball cards which, with the help of a mad scientist, are then duplicated. But success brings double crossing and trickery. Alliances shift as the scheme unfolds into a surprise ending.

Featured in the play are Princeton residents David Boneparth, Maren Levine, Chris Prevost, Lawson McNeil, Aaron Jackson, Alex Cotton, Laura Kornhauser, Christine Wiskowski, Matt Sberring and Jeff Kurtz, all students at PDS. Also featured are Andrew Southern and Owen Sivitz of Skillman. Lighting design is by Carlo Cummings-Caci, a student at John Witherspoon Middle School.

Admission to Double Play is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children. Tickets are available at the door.

Mr. von Oehsen and Ms. Therrien hope to expand their program to reach more children in the area. They also have developed physical theater workshops for groups and organizations within the tri-state area.

The Princeton physical theater program continues this summer with two sessions which meet daily from June 22 to July 10 and July 13 to 31 from 9 to noon. The program is open to students from all schools entering grades three through six.

For additional information call the PDS Director of Summer Programs at 924-6700.

Triangle Show Returns For Reunions Weekend

The Princeton Triangle Club will present its spring musical revue, Do-Re-Media for three performances at McCarter Theatre during Princeton University Reunion Weekend. Performances are Friday at 8 and Saturday at 7:30 and 10.

Do-Re-Media is a revue of songs and sketches that examines how life is influenced by modern media. The theme is explored in a variety of skits ranging from the serious ballad, "Behind the TV Screen" sung by a housewife with only her television for company to the skit "Ashes to Ashes" about women fed up with their "stairmaster to heaven." The highlight of the show is the perennial favorite — the all-male kickline.

This year's show is directed by newcomer Robert Duke with choreography by Jacques Stewart. Mr. Duke's accomplishments as a performer and director include seven seasons and 56 cabarets at the Williamstown Theatre Festival and tours with the Lincoln Center Institute, the Minnesota Opera Company and an improvisational comedy troupe.

Mr. Stewart made his Triangle debut in 1989 as choreographer of Easy Street, followed by The Older the Better and last fall's Centennial production, 100 Years and Still Kicking!

Tickets range from $15 to $25 and may be purchased by calling the McCarter box office at 683-8000.

SummerFest's 6th Season At Rutgers University

Rutgers SummerFest will mark its sixth season with more than 40 events packed into June, July and August, including orchestra concerts, chamber music, recitals and lectures, as well as dance, film, theater and visual arts events.

The festival of the arts will open with a wine and cheese reception Thursday, June 11, from 6 to 8 in the gallery of Walters Hall at Rutgers Arts Center, George Street at Route 18.

Much of the overall programming of this year's festival has been built around the theme "Discovering New Worlds." Events with this focus include a chamber music recital June 27 titled "Schubert and the Congress of Vienna" tbat explores the music of the young Schubert.

Also scheduled is a concert version of one-act operas by Rumanian composer Nicolae Bretan July 22, featuring internationally known soloists from former Iron Curtain countries. An evening of music by Eastern European composers performed by the Sylvan Winds July 23 will feature the music of Shostakovich and Janacek, as well as composers from Latvia, Slovenia and Czechoslovakia.

Robert Kapilow's Discovery Lecture Series will examine masterpieces of music from four pivotal moments in history and show how each grew from the surrounding culture.

"Revolution" Film Series

New this year, a weekly film series titled "Revolution" will be presented on six Tuesdays in association with the Rutgers Film Co-op. "Revolution" focuses on transformation and upheaval in the arts. Classic, experimental and foreign films were chosen that explore moments when cultures collide and the role of the individual during radical change.

The "New Worlds" theme is also reflected in "SummerFiesta: Made in America," one of several smaller subscription packages which acknowledges and celebrates Iberian influences on the arts in the Western Hemisphere. Presented jointly with the Rutgers Hispanic Cultural Center, events in the series include Music from Latin-America July 16 and guitarist Sharon Isbin June 26.

Others include Joshua Rifkin performing piano rags and tangos July 18 and the Spanish Repertory Theatre performing Garcia Lorca's La Coso de Bernordo Alba in Spanish June 11 and 12.

Other SummerFest offerings include performances by the American Boychoir with the Rutgers Festival Orchestra June 13, the Essex Quartet June 18, the New Jersey Symphony July 10, 15, 17 and 19, Nikolais and Murray Louis Dance June 19 and 20 and the Tokyo String Quartet July 12.

Solo Performances

Solo performers are soprano Angelina Reaux July 11 and cellist Sharon Robinson June 28, as well as several resident artists on the faculty of Mason Gross School of the Arts, including flutist James Scott and harpsichordist Charlotte Mattax.

Two special events in early music will feature the voices of the Tallis Scholars performing a cappello Renaissance music July 1, and a group of Aston Magna soloists performing an evening of Baroque music on period instruments July 9.

Pianist Ilana Vered, violinist Hiroko Yajim and conductor/lecturer Robert Kapilow will collaborate with the Rutgers Festival Orchestra on an immersion weekend titled "The Beehoven Revolution" July 24 to 26. They will perform the complete solo concertos of Beethoven, with pre-concert talks by Mr. Kapilow.

Complete schedules, subscriptions and tickets to all events, including the bargain SummerPass, are available at the Rutgers Arts Ticket Office at (908) 932-7511. The SummerPass enables the holder to attend every event throughout the series at significant savings.

In addition, several smaller packages are also available, including SummerFiesta, the Weekend Headliner Series, the Beethoven Revolution and the Revolution film Series.

Performances will be held at air-conditioned Nicholas Music Center and the New Theater at Rutgers Arts Center, George Street and Route 18.

Playreading by Villagers

Brad Bielawski's drama The Prophet Tate, which probes one man's celebrity in the art world and its tragic consequences, is the next offering in the Villagers Theatre 1992 New Playwright Series.

It will be given a free reading Tuesday at 8 in the Zaidi Theatre at the Villagers Theatre, 475 DeMott Lane, Somerset. An informal discussion with the playwright will follow the reading and refreshments will be served.

Mr. Bielawski, a 28-year-old playwright from Titusville, is the author of several screen and television plays. His first two plays for the stage, You Don't Look Like Tickets to o Beors Game and Headlock have received a performance and a staged reading, respectively, at the Commons Theatre in Madison.

"Baker's Wife" Next At Off Broadstreet

The Baker's Wife, a musical based on the French film La Femme du Boulonger, will open at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell on Friday, June 12, for a seven-weekend run.

The show was first seen in 1976 by audiences in Los Angeles and Washington. The show was revised in 1983 and performed at the York Theatre in New York and in London. The score is by Steven Schwartz, who wrote the music for Godspell and Pippin.

Amaible, played by Bob Thick, co-producer of Off-Broadstreet Theatre, arrives as the new town baker with his rather young bride, played by Carmella Silvestri. Amaible soon finds himself unable to bake his delicious pastries as his wife has run off with the handsome chauffeur of the Marquis, played by Richard Chibbaro and Jeff Perrine, respectively. The town desperately tries to reunite Amaible and his wife so that the baker can create his delicacies once again.

The production also features Suzie Berton and John Kemp as the town cafe owners, Michael Renda as the priest, Harris Goodman as a man of morals and Mary Kemp as the town busybody. Gretchen Felix, Debra Allison, and Dara Breitkoph are the Marquis' companions. Tom Orr, Mark Murphy and Stuart Grow add character to the small village.

Mr. Thick and Nick Procacino are co-directing the show, which has music direction by Mark McGee and choreography by Julie Thick.

Performances are weekends through July 25. Friday and Saturday evenings doors open at 7 for dessert with curtain at 8. Sunday matinees feature dessert at 1:30 with curtain at 2:30. Admission is $15.75, Friday and Sunday, and $17.25 on Saturday; the price includes dessert and show.

For reservations call 466-2766. Off-Broadstreet Theatre is located at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell.

Free Tickets Required For Chamber Concerts

The Princeton Summer Chamber Concerts will begin its 24th concert season on June 23.

This year the series will feature five award-winning groups: four string quartets and a brass quintet. All concerts will take place in Richardson Auditorium and begin at 8 p.m. In the past, audience response to the concerts has been overwhelming, resulting in full capacity crowds. As a result, this year, for the first time, free tickets will be required.

Tickets are available at the Richardson Auditorium box office the week prior to each concert. Box office hours are 4 to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 4 to 8 the evening of the concert. No telephone reservations will be accepted at the box office.

The season opens on Tuesday, June 23, with the St. Lawrence String Quartet, a Canadian group that recently won the Young Concert Artists International Auditions and First Prize in the 1992 Banff International String Quartet Competition. The program will include music by Haydn, Debussy, and Beethoven. On Tuesday, July 7, the Colorado String Quartet will appear with guest artist violist Raphael Hillyer, a co-founder of The Juilliard String Quartet. They will perform the music of Haydn, Ginastera, and Brahms.

Tuesday, July 14, brings the Alexander String Quartet, quartet in residence at San Francisco State University, performing works of Schubert, Smetana, and Beethoven. The Saturday Brass Quintet will perform a Renaissance program on Tuesday, July 21. The Quintet is winner of the Walter W. Naumburg Chamber Music Award.

The final concert of the season is the Lark Quartet on Thursday, July 30. Top prize winners in five major international competitions, the Lark Quartet will perform quartets of Schubert, Shostakovich, and Borodin.

Founded by Artistic Director Barbara Sand, the Princeton Summer Chamber Concerts continues to be co-chaired by Victoria and Richard Bergman. Committee members from Princeton and nearby communities assist at the concerts and raise funds for the series, which is free to the public.

VooDudes Band to Play At the Mardi Gras Fete

A busy week is ahead for the VooDudes, a New Orleans style rhythm and blues band that includes several Princeton High School graduates.

The band will perform at the June Mardi Gras Fete Saturday, June 13, to benefit Princeton Medical Center, and it will also provide the music for the dinner dance the night before the Fete, Friday, June 12. This Friday, the Voodudes will play during happy hour from 5:30 to 8:30 at Scanticon Princeton, and later in the evening, from 10 p.m. on, the band will appear at John & Peter's in Lambertville.

Members of the band include Andy Bernstein, lead singer; Ron Tullier, bass; Jim Beckerman, keyboards, and David Ross, drummer. Mr. Beckerman is a 1977 graduate of Princeton High School. Special guests include saxophonist Tom Stange of Princeton, a 1974 PHS graduate, and Peter Beckerman, PHS '82, both of whom will perform at the Fete and at the dinner dance June 12. Two others on tap are guitarist Nick Spidaletto of Hoboken and saxophonist Joe Who of Teaneck.

The Voodudes performed twice last weekend at the seventh annual USAir Jambalaya Jam at Penn's Landing, Philadelphia's waterfront park. Other festivals include the Big Easy Bash in Rhode Island, the Benson & Hedges Blues Festival in New York and the Clearwater Festival in Sandy Hook.

In the two-plus years since they formed, the Voodudes have been averaging 100 or more gigs a year, playing in some 45 venues in six states. Among the clubs in the tri-state area are Tramps and the Lone Star Roadhouse in New York, John & Peter's and Katmandu in Pennsylvania and Stanhope House, Old Bay and Boo Boo's in New Jersey. The group has also made three treks to New Orleans, playing in Jimmy's, the Palm Court, Cafe Brasil and Mid-City Rock 'n Bowl.

Florida Girls' Choir To Sing at Westminster

The Orlando Deanery Girls' Choir, an outreach of the Cathedral of St. Luke of Orlando, Fla., will give a concert Thursday, June 11, at Bristol Chapel, on the Westminster Choir College campus. The program will consist of works by Pergolesi, Bach, Faure and Bernstein.

The choir is on a two-week tour which will include engagements at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. The choir is directed by Jeff Johnson, a former Princeton resident and graduate of Westminster Choir College. Admission is free.

Summer Music Series Begins in Roosevelt

"Roosevelt Summer Music," described by its organizers as an "ad hoc series of concerts featuring chamber and other kinds of music more or less when we get the urge to do it," will inaugurate the season with a concert of Baroque chamber music Saturday at 8 at Roosevelt Borough Hall.

The program is tentatively scheduled to include works by Telemann, Bach, Byrd and Vivaldi. Performers will include Brian Kershner, bassoon, Melanne Sacco, oboe, Katherine McClure, flute, and Anita Cervantes, harpsichord. They all perform widely in the area with various ensembles.

Tickets are $5 per person, $3 for seniors and students.

Chamber Music Concerts By the Waterloo Faculty

The Waterloo School of Music will return to Princeton for the sixth year this summer, and Waterloo faculty artists will perform six chamber music concerts at Richardson Auditorium.

The concerts will take place Friday evenings from July 3 through August 7 at 8 p.m. Each concert will begin with preludes and fugues from Bach's Well-Tempered Clavier, transcribed for different combinations of instruments. After each concert, Waterloo Artistic Director Samuel Lipman will conduct a "Curtain Call Conversation" with the audience, in which listeners will be invited to ask questions and make comments about what they have just heard.

Founded in 1976, the Waterloo Festival presents six Saturday night orchestra concerts in a concert tent at Waterloo Village, Stanhope. These concerts, featuring famous soloists and four appearances by Principal Conductor Gerard Schwarz, begin at 8:30 and will take place this year from July 4 through August 8.

For ticket information for all Waterloo concerts and for information on specially priced subscriptions to the Princeton chamber music series call (201) 347-0900.

Picture Alley Gallery Offers Framing & Art

"Visual impressions are very important. People do not always realize how important a part of their daily routine it is to be surrounded hy pleasant images — images that have meaning. You get a lot of pleasure from your art. You absorb emotions from it, and it can affect your mood."

Elhanan Kaplan not only enjoys being surrounded by a display of artwork at his gallery, Picture Alley, in the Marketplace Mall at Routes 27 and 518, he also likes to help other people learn about art.

ARTISTIC IMPRESSIONS: "I am glad to advise people about framing. First, I look at the artwork and see how it will blend with the frame. The frame should complement the image and enhance it. We also consider the home decor, and what kind of atmosphere you want to present." Elhanan Kaplan, owner of Picture Alley in the Marketplace Mall, has more than 900 sample frames in the gallery, which also features fine posters and prints.

"When you have your own business," he explains, "it is long hours and hard work, and you must enjoy the business you are in. Also, it is important to know what you are trying to do. I am trying to educate people that what they see is very important. It matters what you surround yourself with. It should be things you like. What you see is what you react to. Everything rubs off on you, and it has great influence."

Mr. Kaplan, who came to the U.S. in 1980 from Israel, has a strong background in art, having worked in galleries and learned custom framing in Israel, as well as touring many museums in Europe.

He also earned a degree in mechanical engineering, and worked in that field for several years, receiving a patent from the U.S. government for an engineering invention.

He says, however, "art was my first love", and when the opportunity to open the gallery came along, he was ready for a change.

Wanted a Change

"I wanted to make a change, and I had some choices. I wanted to do something unique, "he explains, "so I decided on the gallery, which offers custom and commercial framing, as well as a large selection of posters and prints, and with an emphasis on catalog ordering.

"Also, my wife Susan has played an important part in helping me establish the business. She has an interior decorating background and a real feeling for art and visual imagery.

"I wanted a library setting," he continues, "where people can sit down and browse through catalogs of art and then order from them. I have many catalogs on everything from Oriental art and French Impressionism to the most modern posters.

I don't carry expensive art," he adds. "It's affordable, visual art in a reasonable range. I also have a number of originals from New Jersey artists."

Mr. Kaplan says his art background is helpful to customers, whether they are selecting a frame or artwork. He can offer advice on all aspects, from color coordination to an understanding of French Impressionism, Oriental, or Southwest art. He adds that he works hard to fill special requests and track down an elusive piece.

"When you consider that approximately 80% of your space is walls, you can see how important it is to hang paintings that create the right atmosphere," hc explains. "It is important to find the right 'wall decor' for you, whether it's a sentimental photograph that brings back happy memories, or a new painting that apeals to you and makes a statement."

Right Frame Crucial

Choosing the right frame is crucial, he believes, and Mr. Kaplan spends however long it takes helping customers find what is suitable. "I usually spend a minimum of a half-hour with a customer and often longer. We try to find what is the best frame for their artwork, and I will usually make two or three suggestions. We try to establish if they want horizontal or vertical, what size, color, etc. I only recommend; I never try to impose because everyone's taste is different.

"All our frames are American-made, including wood and metal," he continues, "and we carry genuine hardwood cherry and oak. We have frames from such suppliers as Larson, Ivy, and La Marche. Also, there are two ways of framing — conservation or regular. Conservation framing uses acid-free paper and acid-free mats. If you are framing a piece with monetary or great sentimental value, you should use conservation framing."

Mr. Kaplan reports that he has framed everything from needlepoint pieces and antique maps to a small Japanese sword. "You never know what to expect," he says. "There is great variety in this business."

Prices for framing depend on many factors, including type of frame, size, regular or non-glare glass, conservation or regular framing. He says an average price is $50, hut some can start at $25.

A typical price when ordering art from a catalog is $30 or $40, with a starting point of $25. There is a great variety of framed pieces on display, as well as many poster choices. Original art is usually in the $150 range.

"We want people to know we are here," says Mr. Kaplan. "I like the business and the atmosphere here, and I like helping people to come out with something they will enjoy. With hard work, luck, and a little help from my friends, I hope to expand and be here a long time."

Chambers Walk Catering Offers Complete Service

"Chambers Walk has been around for a while, but the catering is a new venture. If people remember how great the cafe was, we want them to know we can offer the same atmosphere with our catering. The same personalities are involved in this."

Mario Mangone is referring to the popular Princeton cafe Chambers Walk, which he and his wife Laura operated for five years. When it closed in January of 1991, the Mangones decided to open a catering business. The cafe's namesake, Chambers Walk Catering, is located at 52 Liberty Street in Trenton, with a branch office at 28 Witherspoon Street in Princeton.

"Thirty percent of the Chambers Walk business had been catering," recalls Mr. Mangone. "There is a big call for catering these days. It was a change for us and a challenge, too. We had never done just catering before."

"People's lives are very busy now," adds Laura Mangone. "There are more women working now, and they just don't have time to do the cooking they once did."

Cooking comes naturally to the Mangones, both of whom graduated from the Culinary Institute of America. After intensive training at the Institute, including "externships" at the Breakers in Palm Beach and the Ritz Carleton in Chicago, they worked at various hotels and restaurants. Mrs. Mangone was manager of the Peacock Inn in Princeton and banquet director at Manhattan's Rainbow Room.

Mr. Mangone worked at Roberta's restaurant in Princeton and at the Cafe Royale in Philadelphia. A Princeton native, he says that he became interested in cooking at the age of 17. "The biggest influence was that right after high school, I worked as a prep person at the Alchemist & Barrister. That was really my start. Then I went to the Institute."

A Cooking Family

Mrs. Mangone grew up in a family where cooking was emphasized. "My family loved to cook. It was a real family event. Everyone got involved," she recalls with a smile. "Also, one thing I wanted was to work in something that I really liked to do."

She got her wish. The Mangones do all the cooking for Chambers Walk Catering, and it can make for long hours, to say the least.

"The biggest challenge is when we have more than one event in a day, say four or five parties in one day," observes Mr. Mangone. Adds Mrs. Mangone: "I don't think we'd ever see each other if we didn't work together!"

Fresh quality ingredients and creative cooking are the keys to Chambers Walk Catering believe the owners, who have been very encouraged in the year and a half the business has been open.

"We are full-service, off-premises caterers for corporate and social functions, and we do everything as professionally as possible," explains Mr. Mangone. "We do all kinds of events, including corporate breakfasts, luncheons, picnics, etc. Birthday parties, weddings, anniversaries, and graduations are also popular for us. and we can provide the wait staff, rentals, including tables, chairs, tents, etc., and flowers. We handle everything from a cocktail party to a full course dinner. We can do an intimate dinner for two or a large affair for 2,000, as was the case when Mercer County kicked off its recycling program in Mercer County Park."

The Mangones also work in association with Alan Rambam of the Planners Alternative, which provides event planning. "He handles themes and props," explains Mrs. Mangone. "He can get Santa and elves or a gingerbread house for Christmas parties, clowns for a circus theme, and hot dog carts, palm readers and hypnotists for a carnival. He is a theme coordinator."

Central Location

Chambers Walk customers come from all over Mercer County, including Princeton and Lawrenceville, as well as Bucks County, Pa. "We are in a good central location to serve a wide area," says Mrs. Mangone, "and a lot of our customer were also customers at the cafe in Princeton. We have worked for a number of major corporations in the area, as well as Princeton University and the state of New Jersey. We have four full-time employees, and our own staff of waiters and bartenders who work for us."

"In addition," adds Mr. Mangone, "Susan Olson is the catering and event coordinator in Princeton, and she works with the customers from beginning to end. The state and Princeton University bid out jobs, and when we receive the party, they always say how much they appreciated the personal attention. We are not too big, and we can provide the personal touch. Susan is normally at the party."

Chambers Walk Catering offers a number of special dishes, including such hot hors d'oeuvres as shrimp toasts with ginger soy sauce, skewered cajun chicken with sour cream salsa, and sesame beef kebabs. Entrees include soup, salad, meat, poultry or chicken, vegetables, bread and rolls, dessert and coffee. Roast rack of lamb with parmesan and cracked black pepper crust or grilled veal chops with mango chutney are among the specialties.

"We can also provide vegetarian dishes," notes Mr. Mangone, "and we do a lot of pasta dishes. Any pasta products we use are from Lucy's Ravioli Kitchen, another new company. They have 15 or 20 different types of ravioli alone, as well as linguini, fettucine, etc. We do a lot of special Italian dishes, and also French, Oriental, and Mexican, among others."

Corporate breakfasts and lunches are popular too, and can range from a Continental breakfast of assorted croissants, muffins, scones, and bagels to more elaborate waffles and omelets made to order. A variety of bomemade soups, salads and sandwiches are available with such specialties as creamy spicy carrot, New Orleans seafood gumbo, spinach salad with apples and raisins and Roquefort berb dressing, and Thai beef salad with spicy peanut dressing.

"The food is made here and made fresh," says Mrs. Mangone. "It is usually made the day of or the day before the event, and again, we emphasize our flexibility. We listen to the client's needs and their special requests. Sometimes, they have special family recipes that they want us to include. I understand that. In fact, one of our desserts, bread pudding with whisky sauce, was my grandmother's recipe.

Appealing Presentation

"Also," she continues, "our presentation is special. This is very important. The color and garnishing are appealing. We keep it simple and effective, and we don't do a lot of grandiose things. We do use a lot of fresh flowers."

"We try to work within people's budgets," adds Mr. Mangone. "With some catering companies, you just get a package — $30 per person. In these times of watching your money, people are happy to strike a bargain. They can make choices about what will suit their budget best, and they know the quality is there. Also, if they prefer, we can prepare the food and just deliver it, and they can handle the serving."

Chambers Walk prices cover a wide range, depending on the choice. For food alone, a continental breakfast is typically $5 per person, and brunch can run $12 to $15.

"I enjoy the diversity of our work," notes Mr. Mangone. "Every party is different. It can be indoors, outdoors, formal or informal. Last year, we even catered an event in the middle of the woods in Hopewell. We hope to become an even more improved catering company — to continue to serve customers in the same way we do now and provide the same quality to even more people."

The Mangones advise advance notice for Chambers Walk Catering services. Six months for a wedding and one week for a dinner party are recommended.

For further information, call 683-5439 or 695-9446 Monday through Friday between 9 and 5.

—Jean Stratton

CREATIVE CATERING: "We can be very creative with the menu. We come up with new ideas, and we pride ourselves on working in conjunction with the customers and being flexible. We recently did a Thai menu for a wedding, with their own recipes. We also have many suggested menus for every type of occasion." Mario and Laura Mangone, owners of Chambers Walk Catering in Trenton, can offer clients complete choices for breakfast, lunch, dinners, and parties for corporate or social functions.

ART

American Graphics: From Abecedaires to Zoetropes

Coming away from the delightful exhibit of ephemera at the Milberg Gallery in Princeton University's Firestone Library, one's first inclination is to rush home and run upstairs to the attic. Somewhere in the jumble of ancient steamer trunks, crumbling scrapbooks, and boxes overflowing with yellowing letters and papers could be a previously unappreciated treasure waiting to be discovered.

Also, in all likelihood, whatever might have been there has long since been tossed into the trash. That, by its very definition, is the nature of ephemera. After all, who except for dedicated pack rats, would think of saving old railroad tickets, used blotters, outdated calendars, empty cigar boxes, timetables or tattered postcards?

Fortunately, some visionaries were able to see beyond the merely utilitarian value of such things as old liquor labels, advertising brochures and lottery tickets and rescued them from the dustbin of history.

"Graphic Americana: The Art & Technique of Printed Ephemera," which will be at the Milberg Gallery through September 20, is filled with quaint items which are of interest not only for their innate charm, but for the insight they offer into American social history and the history of the graphic arts.

Almost any object, from board games and cigar boxes to souvenir trays and folding fans, was tabula rasa for the graphic artist's skill. To give a measure of coherence to the exhibit, the items have been organized into six broad categories of ephemera: Social (certificates and announcements, greeting cards, invitations, calendars, etc.); Educational (diplomas, bookplates, etc.); Entertainment (posters, playbills, games, etc.); Military, Medical and Civic (insignia, flags, medals, memorabilia, recruitment posters, etc.); Political (broadsides, campaign ribbons, etc.); and Merchandising (cards, flyers, packaging, etc.). The collection is a tribute to the highly developed printing techniques of the 19th century, which included engraving, woodcut, letterpress and especially, chromo-lithography.

"Nearly all are from waste basket remnants of the previous century, here rescued and preserved as rare original examples of nearly lost printing arts," writes curator Dale Roylance, in the beautifully illustrated exhibition catalog.

Perhaps the most enchanting items are the "Hold-to-Lights," in which pin holes through the print are illuminated when the picture is held up to a light source. The Paris Exposition Universelle of 1900 was a popular subject and post cards show such grand buildings as the Palais de L'Electricite (themselves a bit of ephemera), dramatically enhanced by a glowing moon, shimmering waters and lighted windows. Other enchanting novelties include movables, pull-outs and pop-ups which employ a variety of clever paper engineering tricks.

One small indication of social change in the last century can be seen in a group of elaborate Victorian bookmarks, designed of handsomely stitched ribbons. "The bookmark," observes Mr. Roylance in the catalog, "has become almost a nonentity in our own casual reading day, since most any old insert or turned down corner or 'dog-ear' seems to do the job."

Chromo-lithography was doomed by the invention of the half-tone in 1878, and by the 1920s, four-color photography reigned supreme.

Sadly, today's "ephemera" is not nearly so ephemeral. Paper has given way to plastic which threatens to choke our landfills for generations to come. Nor does it give as much delight. Despite the technical virtuosity of today's disposables, their very slickness has robbed them of the innocent charm of their forebears.

The four-color exhibition catalog is available for $10. Included in the price is an exhibit poster. A poster on heavier paper, suitable for framing, is also available.

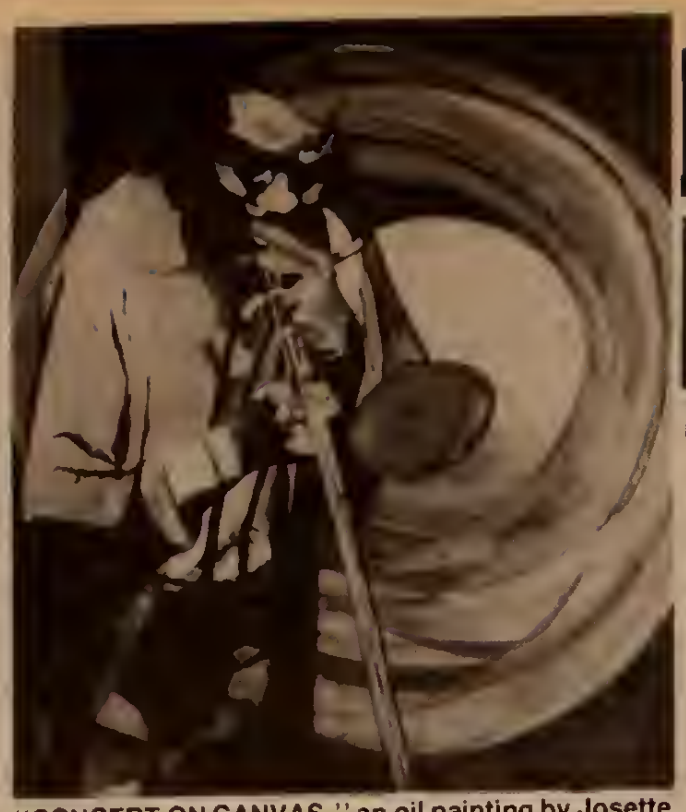
Jockson Pollock: 'Psychoanalytic Drawings'

Probably the biggest surprise for visitors to this exhibit at the Princeton Art Museum is that Jackson Pollock, exemplar of the drip and splatter school of Abstract Expressionism, was also an accomplished draftsman. The 44 drawings here are from the period of 1939-1940, when he was under the care of Jungian psychotherapist Dr. Joseph Henderson, and predate by several years his now-famous action paintings.

The drawings, which had been left with the doctor during the period of treatment, are attended by some notoriety. While under the care of Dr. Henderson, Jackson Pollock had not yet become Jackson Pollock, world-famous painter. To Dr. Henderson, he was just another emotionally disturbed patient.

It was not until several years after Pollock's death in 1956 that Henderson happened across a Pollock painting in the San Francisco Museum of Art and realized that the unknown patient he had been treating was one of the most famous artists of the 20th century. Going back to his files, he pulled out those long-forgotten drawings and offered them for sale.

In 1969 they were sold to a gallery in San Francisco, which organized an exhibition titled Jackson Pollock: 'Psychoanalytic Drawings,' which traveled to various institutions until Pollock's widow, artist Lee Krasner, sued Dr. Henderson for violating the privacy of his patient. Eventually, the lawsuit was settled in Dr. Henderson's favor, but the controversy continues.



"CONCERT ON CANVAS," an oil painting by Josette Altman, may be seen at The Studio Gallery in Hopewell from June 6 through June 27. Additional work by the artist, as well as paintings by Carol Critchlow, will be featured in the exhibit.

Among the issues involved is to what extent the drawings figured in Pollock's treatment and how aware the artist was of Jungian principles. Doctrinaire Jungians see mythic symbolism in many of these works. (Perhaps if Pollock had been under the care of a Freudian analyst, a different set of symbols might be discerned.) Pollock, who was apparently a less than loquacious patient, had been asked by the doctor to bring in his drawings as a means of encouraging discussion. What is not known is whether the drawings were done as part of the therapy or were just samples of his normal work.

In any event, as an art exhibit, it is as art that these works must be judged. One must ask whether, if Pollock had not gone on to worldwide fame, would these drawings be any more than facile doodles? The imagery in them is greatly derivative, owing a great debt to Picasso, especially to Guernica, as well as to Joan Miro and Paul Klee.

Most of the drawings are done in colored pencil, graphite pencil, crayon and ink wash. Those in color are executed in a palette primarily of earth tones — burnt sienna, brick red, green — which may reflect the artist's interest in Native American art.

Some of the drawings are simple, linear exercises; others are dense and complex, with networks of elaborate patterns covering the page. Fantastic and humanoid images abound. Horses, bulls, skeletal remains, phallus-like shapes and ghostly heads and faces with gaping jaws and jagged rows of teeth populate many of the drawings.

Since none of the drawings were numbered or dated, the curators have arbitrarily grouped them by thematic concerns and style. Thus, one group is improvisational, displaying rapid execution and simple color schemes; another shows greater coloristic variety and more confusion of forms. Some are abstract, others figurative; some rectilinear, some curvilinear. And then there are some that couldn't be shoehorned into any subgroup.

For anyone interested in the finer points of the Pollock-Jungian controversies, the exhibition catalog presents an excellent, well-balanced exegesis. The exhibition will continue through June 14.

Exhibits

The Studio Gallery, Hopewell, will celebrate its first anniversary on Saturday with a special showing of oil paintings by Josette Altman and Carol F. Critchlow. The exhibit will run through June 27. There will be a reception for the artists on June 6 from 5 to 7 p.m., with music by jazz pianist Laurie Altman, husband of the artist.

Josette Altman was born and raised in Paris, France and studied at the Academie Julian and the Ecole des Beaux Arts. She came to New York in the early 1960s and exhibited at a number of group shows in New Jersey and a one-woman show in the Gallery d'Hautbarr, New York City. She is currently working on paintings of musicians of all kinds from rock and roll bands to string quartets. The gallery show features a selection of these.

Carol Critchlow, a Hopewell artist, studied paintings at Carnegie-Mellon Unviersity in Pittsburgh. She has also studied with Mel Leipzig and shown in various group exhibitions in the Mercer County area. Two of her drawings were selected for the Trenton Artists Workshop Association's Russian Art Exchange, and travelled to the USSR.

A special show of the works of Cheryl Safren, of Valley Stream, N.Y., will be on display in the Stony Brook Gallery of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association from June 3 through July 11. The exhibit, entitled "Sea Life" will feature textured paintings designed to create unique organic effects.

The public is invited to the opening reception on Saturday, June 6, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The gallery is located in the Buttinger Center near the headquarters of the Watershed Association on Titus Mill Road in Hopewell Township.

Tiger Lacrosse Has Little Time to Bask in Glow of Title, It May Soon Be Looking for Replacement for Tierney

Sometimes when you reach the top of the mountain, there's little time to sit back and enjoy the view.

Just a week after the Princeton lacrosse team's stunning march to the NCAA championship, the Tigers have already begun to look toward next year. As the top team in the nation, Old Nassau has naturally raised everybody's expectations for next spring. There's work to be done, and not just by coach Bill Tierney.

The toast of the town after turning his team around from 2-13 losers his first year to 13-2 champions his fourth, Tierney has already been off to Long Island to look at future high school recruits.

This year's team, characterized by Tierney as having tremendous heart and desire, will have to be rebuilt. Thirteen seniors will graduate. Only half a dozen had starting roles, but all of them, having been part of the program since their freshmen year, helped bring home the national championship.

The biggest holes to be filled will be those left by Justin Tortolani at attack, midfielders Andy Moe, Mike Mariano, Mal Mistrell and Greg Waller (also the team's face-off specialist) and defenseman David Gaines. Others departing include reserve goalie Dave Shefferman, attackman Evan Garfein, midfielders Ed Calkins, Highley Thompson and Chad Muir, and defensemen John Schroeder, Todd Murphy and Matt Reese. Reese typifies the unselfish aspect of this team. A soccer goalie, he joined the team at Tierney's request, because a third goalie was needed.

In a vote last week by coaches in the sport, Mariano was named a second-team all-American, Tortolani and Moe were picked for the third team, and Waller received honorable mention. Tortolani finished as Princeton's all-time leading goal-scorer with 120, and third on the school's all-time scoring chart with 164 points.

A SOLID BUILDING BLOCK: Princeton's NCAA championship lacrosse team will lose 15 seniors, including half a dozen starters, but with first team, all-American goalie Scott Bacigalupo returning, a key building block is already in place. He allowed just over eight goals a game with a save percentage of .615.

Strong Nucleus Returns

However, Tierney's ability to bring in four solid recruiting classes leaves a solid nucleus of players behind. Next year's defense can't help but be strong again with two first team all-Americans, sophomore goalie Scott Bacigalupo and junior defenseman David Morrow, returning. One of these two will probably receive MVP honors for the Final Four Tournament at the all-American banquet this Friday.

Kevin Lowe, who led the Tigers in scoring for the second straight year, and is already 10th on the career scoring list with 111 points (fifth in career assists with 82), will anchor the attack. He will have two experienced players with him, junior John Burstein and sophomore Taylor Simmers. Midfield loses the most talent, but this unit will have Torr Marro, Scott Reinhardt and Brian Tomeo back.

Tierney's efforts will also pay off next fall with a group of freshmen recruits expected to contribute immediately. He's got three midfielders coming in from Long Island. Fred McMahon, a Kent School graduate, is from Manhasset, as is Jason Buttles, 6'2, 200 pounds. He played for Manhasset High. Nearby Garden City High will send Don McDonough, a 6'3, 195-pound midfielder.

The defense will be bolstered by 6'4, 210-pound Rob Neff from Norfolk, Va. Another defenseman, Loren Gardner, was stolen from Cornell coach Richie Moran's backyard in Ithaca. Two attackmen expected to stand out include Bart Bansbach from Denver and Jeff McBean from Philadelphia. He is the son of Scott McBean, the Princeton football quarterback who led the Tigers to their 1969 Ivy title.

So Tierney has plenty of talent to work with next spring, but the question occupying the minds of University officials at the moment is whether he'll still be here next spring.

Just three years after he had left the Johns Hopkins coaching staff, where he served as an assistant from 1985-87, Tierney was approached by the Blue Jays to take over their head coaching job. An offer to take over the top spot at that venerable lacrosse power is difficult to turn down, but Tierney did so, saying he had not finished the job at Princeton.

Virginia Targets Tierney

Now that the Orange and Black has gone from worst to first, the job has certainly been finished, and Tierney is a target once again. The University of Virginia is looking for a coach, and Tierney will reportedly be there this Friday to listen to its offer.

Rest assured it will be a generous one. Lacrosse is a big sport at UVA, too, and it would like nothing better than to snag the man who is the odds-on favorite to be named Division I Coach of the Year at the banquet this Friday.

Lacrosse coaching circles are small, compared to other major sports, and Syracuse coach Roy Simmons' comments ring true. "Princeton is very lucky to have a coach like Bill Tierney," he said after the NCAA title game. "I'll tell you they'd better take him home and keep a short leash on him."

Since indentured servants are no longer in vogue, Tierney is free to consider any offer. The one from Virginia may well be one Tierney, who has four children, the oldest of whom, Trevor, is 13, cannot refuse. Big budget-crushing items like college tuitions loom ahead.

Right now, Princeton is scrambling to see what it can come up with in terms of a counter offer, but the University is limited in what it can do. Unlike basketball and football, the head lacrosse job is not an endowed position.

One official close to the situation commented that if Tierney decides it's in his best interest to leave, he would understand. "Bill has to do what he feels is best for himself and his family," he said. At the same time, he feels Princeton with its strong program would have the ability to entice another good coach to replace Tierney. "We've worked hard to bring the program up to this level." We're not about to let it backtrack."

IF YOU DON'T READ TOWN TOPICS, how will you keep up with the news?

SAFE AT FIRST, SAFE AT SECOND: Princeton High's Matt Deveau is safe at first base on a close play and then safe at second on a steal in action in Little Tiger finale last week against Lawrenceville School. Deveau scored only run in 15-1 loss.

Ending Same as Start For PHS Baseball Team

The Princeton High baseball team, which began its season with a 17-1 loss to Steinert, ended it much the same way on Friday with a 15-1 loss to Lawrenceville School. "It was ugly," agreed first-year coach Jason Petrone.

It wasn't the ending first-year coach Jason Petrone had in mind. After an 0-9 start, the Little Tigers started to win. The team had won six of its last nine, going into its final two games. Instead of ending on an up note, however, the Blue and White crashed and burned. The day before the Lawrenceville game, it was blanked 5-0, by Hamilton.

The two teams, Hamilton and Lawrenceville, have won 31 games between them.

The Little Tigers ended with a 6-15 record — one more than the 5-15 effort they posted last year under Larry Mansier who stepped down after four years. That's the good news, faint as it is. The bad news is the Blue and White still has a way to go if it hopes to contend.

"We had a nice little winning streak, but I wish we could have won a few more," said Petrone. "If we had won a few of those extra-inning games it could have been very exciting. I think the players know they're capable of doing a lot better."

This season was a learning year. "We know what we have to work on next season; we'll be better prepared," Petrone predicted. "I'm optimistic that we'll get a few more victories next year."

The pitching especially has to come around. It was notably absent again in the last two games.

Quick Leads

Hamilton (17-9) jumped on PHS pitcher Derek Kaczmarek for four runs in the first inning, as center fielder Rich Kraemer drove in two runs and catcher Steve Kraemer had two hits. The Hornets' Jim Dunnmeyer, in contrast, limited PHS to four singles (Ben Stentz, Geoff Spies, Chris Healey and Mike Procaccini), struck out seven and did not issue a single walk.

The following day, host Lawrenceville (14-10) sent a message early when leadoff batter Joe Zona rocketed a home run over the left field fence off starter Healey. It was Zona's third leadoff homer of the season.

Following a single to right, Lawrenceville made it 3-0 when PHS right fielder Matt Deveau let a single get by him and the ball rolled to the fence, allowing two runs to score. "You made only one bad pitch," said Petrone, as he tried to console Healey.

Healey made another an inning later when shortstop Sean Gillespie ripped a Healey offering over the left field fence with a runner on to up the margin to 5-0. That was all for Healey. He moved behind the plate and was replaced by sophomore Jeremy Rathbone.

Rathbone was treated just as badly by the Lawrenceville batters. He was clubbed for 12 hits and ten runs — all earned — in the four innings he worked. Kaczmarek finished up.

Big Red catcher Chris Nelson had four hits, including a triple, scored three and drove in two runs. Gillespie and first baseman Greg Brooks finished with three hits each.

PHS plated its lone run in the third. Deveau beat out a bunt for a hit and stole second. Then with two down, and runners at second and third, Healey roped a single between short and third to score Deveau, but Doug Chang fanned to end it.

Deveau had two of Princeton's seven hits. Stentz, Spies, Chang and Healey also hit safely.

Departing Seniors

Seniors who played their last game for PHS include captain Ben Stentz, who batted over .300, Healey, who played behind the plate, at first base and pitched, and infielder Doug Chang. "I'll definitely miss those three," said Petrone. Also departing are Dave Beshel and Louis Wolinetz. Petrone started the latter behind the plate in the final game with Lawrenceville.

Returning are Deveau, another .300 hitter, Geoff Spies and Mike Procaccini. "Hopefully Procaccini," says Petrone, who reports the sophomore may enter a prep school next year. "We're still counting on him."

Kaczmarek and Rathbone return to the mound and Spies and Procaccini can also pitch. Also returning are pitcher Darren Horangic, Jeff Sprague, Mark Lesh, sophomore Steve Lutkowski, who played at third against Lawrenceville, freshman catcher Mike Berkman and Bob Pisano and Garrett Roberts.

Ficarro's Still in First Despite an Idle Week

Steve Ficarro's Auto Body women's softball team did not play a game last week but remained tied with Logo Sports for the lead in the Mercer County Women's League.

Two strong teams are on tap this week, however. On Thursday at 6:30 at Mercer Park's Field 7 Ficarro's will oppose Miller Beer, which is tied for third place with Grove Plumbing. In an earlier meeting this spring, Ficarro's rallied in the last inning to nip Miller, 11-10, in a wild outing.

Tuesday will feature the Battle of Princeton, Part 2, when Princeton-based Ficarro's takes on Conte's Bar at 7:30 on Field 3. Ficcaro's topped its town rival earlier, 4-1, in a defensive battle.

In an interesting score last week, Miller Beer routed Grove Plumbing, 18-5, with the game halted after five innings under the 10-run rule. "For Miller to explode against Grove like that is really something," said Ficarro general manager Bob Smyth.

In other league developments, Logo Sports, the old Larkin's Gulf team, has won nine in a row after losing its first two to remain tied with Ficarro's for the lead, and Mercer Spring, a second division team the past few years, appears to have taken the step up to the next level to compete with the league front-runners. Mercer Spring is currently in second place with an 8-3 record.

PHS' Grant, Penningroth In the Meet of Champions

Nixon Grant and Ailey Penningroth, two season-long top performers on the Princeton High track team, have qualified for this week's Meet of Champions at South Plainfield. All those who finished sixth or higher in events in last weekend's NJSIAA state track meet advanced.

Grant finished sixth in the 200 dash in 23.28 in the Group II state meet. He will be joined by Todd Lewis of Hopewell Valley High who cleared 14-0 feet in the pole vault, breaking his own school record of 13-9¼. Lewis tied Greg Schroeder of Hanover Park who was awarded first place on the basis of fewer misses.

Princeton's John Callegari just missed qualifying when he finished seventh in the 800 meter race.

Ailey Penningroth qualified in both hurdler events. She was third in the 400 hurdles with a time of 1:05.46 and fourth in the 100 in 16.25. Princeton tied Roselle for fifth place in the team standings in the girls' competition.

The previous day, Penningroth also qualified in the shot put, finishing third in that event with a toss of 35-11¼. Teammate Ruth Willias was fourth, a quarter of an inch behind at 35-11.

Missy Ronches of Jefferson won the event with a 36-5 effort.

The previous week in the Central Jersey Group II championships, Penningroth had tossed the shot 38-6 for a career-best distance.

Khalaf, Cohen Advance In State Singles Event

Princeton High's George Khalaf and Jason Cohen were scheduled to compete earlier this week in the second round of the NJSIAA tennis singles championships being waged at the Mercer County and Veterans Park courts.

After weekend rains had forced the cancellation of many matches, the tournament director said this week that the semifinal and final matches would most likely be played on Friday and Saturday.

In opening round matches at Mercer Park, Khalaf, the Mercer County Tournament number one singles champion, had little difficulty disposing of Mike O'Brien of Pope John XXIII, 6-1, 6-4, while Cohen posted a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Doug Kochman of Point Pleasant Beach.

In second round matches, Khalaf will face Peter Santos of Monroe and Cohen will oppose Michael Labombarda of North Plainfield.

East Brunswick senior Robbie Chess, the national 18-and-under indoor champion, is the top seed in the tournament.

76ers Finish Second In Soccer Tournament

The Princeton '76ers travelling soccer team finished second in the Greece (N.Y.) Invitational Soccer Tournament held Memorial Day weekend outside Rochester.

After dropping a 2-1 decision to eventual tournament champion Gates Heat, the '76ers faced the host team Greece Rangers on Memorial Day for the tournament's silver medal. The Princeton team won the silver when it blanked the Rangers, 1-0, behind the game's only goal by midfielder Eddy Garcia Carrillo.

In an earlier game, the '76ers, comprised of players 15½ to 16½ years old, defeated the Penfield Strikers, 3-1, and, on the second day of the event, they edged Endicott, 2-1, and shut out the Orchard Park Rebels, 4-0.

Scoring by the Princeton team was spread out. In addition to Carrillo's game-winning goal, Grant Cooper, Laate Olukotun, Bren Plummer, Erick Santizo and Reggie Wright also scored. Goalie Alex Harris allowed only four goals in five games.

By a vote of the opposing coaches, Harris was honored as the outstanding goalie, Santizo the outstanding forward and Ismar SantaCruz the outstanding fullback.

All the team players attend Princeton High School or Princeton Day School with the exception of two who attend Pennington School.

The team is coached by Dick Spies, vice-president for finance at Princeton University and by Joel Cooper, department head and Professor of Psychology at the University. It has two weeks of play left in its regular season.

YOU CAN'T JUDGE A HOUSE BY ITS COVER.

INTRODUCING THE COLDWELL BANKER SELLER DISCLOSURE PROGRAM.

Now buyers can feel more secure about a home's condition. And sellers can be assured of easier negotiations and less likelihood of delays at closing.

There are just a few benefits of our Seller Disclosure Program. And, like the warranty coverage in our Best Buyer Home Protection Plan, it can help turn a home sale into a win-win situation for buyers and sellers.

Disclosures are a key when time is of the essence. Ask us and we'll show you it's not about what's wrong. It's about what's right.

Tusculum

This country Manor house was built in 1773 by John Witherspoon. On 22 rolling acres in Princeton Township this historic home has gracious detailing indigenous to the fine homes of that time — wide pine floors, high ceilings, crown moldings and numerous fireplaces. With six bedrooms, double-parlored living room, ante-room with a Gentleman's Bar, large dining room and country kitchen, there are generous living spaces. An 1815 stone barn, tennis court, pool and cottage are only a few of the additional assets of this outstanding property. An exceptional example of American 18th Century country Georgian architecture, this is a rare opportunity to own one of Princeton's finest and largest historic estates.

Green Barn Farm

Set far back on a country road this circa 1806 Federal farmhouse on nine beautiful acres in Hopewell Township has just been renovated and expanded to further enhance its country elegance and charm. This gracious example of early American architecture has five working fireplaces, wide floor boards and enjoys wonderful views from every window. A center hall with spacious study on the right, formal dining room on the left leads to the new magnificent windowed living room opening to a brick terrace. The sparkling white live-in kitchen combines the most modern cooking facilities with a delightful sitting area. There are front and back stairs to four bedrooms. The spectacular new master bedroom suite with soaring ceiling boasts that most coveted asset — his and her baths —, a large private loft and doors that lead to a balcony and down to the pool. In this house the hard work has been done — the glitz is in the mechanicals — and the lovely finished product looks timeless. A stone spring house and crisp barns are surrounded by ageless trees and meadows creating a perfect setting for peaceful living.
